GENERAL NEWS.

Henry Ward Beecher Rebukes some Sentimental People.

PRESIDENT BILLINGS AND VILLARD'S RECENT DEAL.

All Big Operators out of the New York Stock Market—The Spring Run of Immigration Commenced—Etc., Etc., Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 20.—Henry Ward Beecher announced yesterday, says the Times, that revival meetings each afternoon and evening during the week would be continued, but the evening service will be prayer instead of preaching. "I desire to give notice," he continued, "that I cannot attend to secular business at the close of these week-day services, and I might as well say right here that I have sold my interest in navy yard premises, in the New York custom house, in New York and Brooklyn postoffices, in the treasury department, in the postoffice department, and almost every department at Washington, and a letter from me to those places will be of no use whatever. Applicants will please take notice of these transfers of property. During the sermon Beecher said that liberalism and national preaching were fixing ruffled shirts and putting cologne on men who were rotten within. If there is one thing I consider thoroughly indecent, continued Beecher, it is the way in which criminals are coseted and carried out of life. When a murderer is to be hanged, women send flowers to him and would kiss an ulcer for his sake. Priests run to him, and philanthropists hurry after them. He is going to die. Are not one hundred thousand persons dying all around, and there is nobody to run to them? There is no sympathy for them, but if a monster is to die for foul murder, the flood gates of sympathy are opened, and the newspapers tell how he died trusting in Jesus. Faugh! What mischief that thief on the cross did. Can a man who has crept to the gallows through common sewers, at the last moment, just before the last effort to obtain pardon, suddenly blossom out into fervent religious life? I don't believe it.

Gould's Movements.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Jay Gould and family have gone to Florida for a fortnight. Yesterday his broker called in a large amount of loans.

The Big Fish out of the Market.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Graphic says: Keene and Mills are out of the market, and Vanderbilt is practically in the same position.

Rufus Hatch Again.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Times says: Rufus Hatch has begun suit as stockholder of the American Telegraph Company against that and two other telegraph companies, the Union Trust Company and trustees of the American Union individually. The relief he seeks is similar to that demanded in the cause now under discussion, except that he asks that the trustees of the American Union shall be declared responsible for all loss or damage suffered by him and other stockholders in consequence of their alleged illegal acts under the agreement of consolidation.

New York Items.

Whitelaw Reid has been elected president of the Lotus club.

The Tribune says: Gen. Grant did not resign at the world's fair meeting to-day.

The Streets of New York.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A large meeting of the very best citizens was held to-night in Cooper Institute to protest against the unclean condition of the streets.

A Bonanza Man's Contribution.

J. W. Mackey gave $25,000 to the Grant fund.

Arrival of Immigrants.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Immigrants arrived to-day, 3,135. A large number of German farm hands are awaiting employment at Castle Garden.

Through Tickets by the Southern Route.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The first through ticket via the new Southern Pacific route to California was sold in New York city yesterday.

The Co-operative Experiment.

The New York Co-operative Society opened its first store yesterday at No. 7 Clinton Place. The stock taken so far amounts to $5125 and this is distributed among 217 persons. It is said that the store will start with the patronage of about 150 families.

Beecher's Revival a Failure.

Beecher's revival meetings thus far are not very successful. The Herald says that attendance nightly in Plymouth lecture room has been large, but few remain to talk with Beecher about personal religion, and the tangible evidence of good from the meetings are therefore slight.

Business Failures.

Failures reported during the past week throughout the United States and Canada, as published in Brad street, amount to 110—an increase over the preceding week of about 15 per cent.

Traitors.

NEW YORK, March 19.—In the prosecution of the keepers of the gambling and disorderly houses it has been ascertained, says the Tribune, that two agents of the society for the prevention of crime were in the habit of giving notice of visits of the police so that law-breakers were enabled to defeat the ends of justice.

The Northern Pacific.

CHICAGO, March 20.—The Tribune's New York special says that Mr. Billings is not at all disturbed by reports that Mr. Villard has bought a majority of of the stock of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., and that he has no fears that the enterprise of which he is the head will ever be subordinate to the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co. This statement of course is made by Billings, but the fact remains that it is believed by some Northern Pacific officials that Villard has secured control of the stock as telegraphed to the Tribune last Saturday, and this being the case, the interest he represents will be likely to do as they see fit when the time comes.

The Coming Chicago Saengerfest.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The collections for the German saengerfest to be held here in June amount to $30,000, and there is every indication that the occasion will be noteworthy for its magnitude and success.

A Costly Building.

The count of the expense of building the new custom house and postoffice shows the amount to be $5,610,000.

Dramatic News from Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Jake Murray, a well known character, takes Haverly's new "Strategists" party on the road and will be in San Francisco in two weeks. It is intended to run the piece four weeks at the Bush street theater.

Will J. Davis, of the Grand Opera house, opens a new theater in Keokuk to-night.

It is stated that two managers of this city are very earnestly discussing a plan of returning to the stock company plan, and believe that it must be done in a year or two at farthest, as the "star" system is costly and in many respects unpleasant for the actors themselves as well as for the managers.

All the theaters have done a fine business this week. Next week the "Danites" will be produced at Hooley's, the Rankin-Bierchan's French opera at McVicker's, genuine colored minstrels at Haverly's, Daly's "Arabian Nights" at the Grand Opera house with minstrels and variety shows at the minor houses.

The New Lyceum has had a successful first week. Hooley has engaged Jacques Kruger, the comedian, for next season. He is said to be getting together a comedy company.

Fatal Accidents.

OMAHA, March 19.—At Plattsmouth this morning, Henry Stark fell off a railroad bridge and was fatally injured, receiving two fractures on the skull and having both legs broken. He was on his way to Chicago with a train of cattle. His home is at Tekamah where he has a family residing.

Engineer C. C. M. Barnhart of the Burlington and Missouri road, was killed at Plattsmouth to-day by being run over by his train.

Railroad Accident.

PARSONS, Ks., March 19.—Two locomotives and twenty cars were destroyed by a collision of two freight trains on a side track last night, and a brakeman and engineer killed. Carelessness of one of the conductors was the cause.

Railroad Statement.

MILWAUKEE, March 18.—The annual report of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will show 27-10 per cent increase in the passenger business over the preceding year, and 27 3-10 per cent increase in the freight business.

Cincinnati Whisky Quotation.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—Whisky lower; active at $1.04.

American Fish Eggs for Europe.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The North German Lloyd's steamer Donau took out 20,000 eggs of the Winninnish landlocked salmon yesterday. They came from the U. S. salmon breeding station at Grand Lake stream, Maine, by order of U. S. Fish Commissioner S. F. Baird. They were sent to Mr. Fred Mather, of the Forest and Stream, to be repacked for steamer transit in his own manner. Twenty thousand of these eggs go to the German Fishery Association, Berlin, and the remainder to the Society de Acclimatation, Paris.

Not Guilty.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—The case of ex-U. S. senator D. H. Armstrong has been on trial several days past for malfeasance in office while he was at the head of the police board of this city, terminated this afternoon, and the jury after a few minutes consultation, rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Another Arrest in the Land Case.

John Brady, Jr., a notary of this city was arrested this afternoon for complicity in the land frauds recently unearthed here.

Moral Reform in Illinois.

EVANSTON, March 19.—Printed bills were posted all over the city last night, warning some twenty persons, about half of them being women, to leave the place or be regulated by vigilantes. Several of these people were whipped a few evenings as previously reported. Most of them have left the city since morning. The vigilantes are determined to rid the country of desperadoes and their women, who are incendiaries, robbers, cattle stealers, etc.

Died.

LOUISVILLE, March 19.—A. Keene Richards, a well known turf man is dead.

A Saw Mill Blown Up.

LOUISVILLE, March 19.—A portable boiler in Tyler & Harrod's saw mill on the Kentucky river, two miles below Frankfort, exploded to-day, killing and wounding all in the mill. John Harrod was blown forty feet and instantly killed; his brother, Lawrence, died in four and Frank Graham died in three hours. Wm. Arnold's jawbone was broken and Jas. Redding, Wm. Wheeler, Louis Harrod and Hugh Tyler were badly scalded.

Collision in Texas.

PALESTINE, March 19.—Last night a passenger train from Long View to Palestine collided with a freight train loaded with railroad iron, causing great damage to both trains. The passenger train was well filled with passengers. J. K. Hon[illegible], express messenger, was instantly killed, the engineer seriously injured, John Teiendale, a passenger, badly hurt, and eight or ten slightly hurt. The accident was caused by freight cars being started on the down grade. Their heavy weight caused them to run with great speed until they met the passenger train. The smoking car was almost completely telescoped by the express and baggage car.

An Awful Crime.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—"Death from being stabbed by its mother. I find that said wounds were inflicted to commit murder." The above is the verdict of the coroner this afternoon in a case of infanticide. The mother is Matilda Sreasele. The birth and infanticide occurred two weeks ago but the discovery of the child in a privy vault was not made till last night and then accidentally by a plumber. Twenty mortal stabs were found on its body. The mother this afternoon testified that she gave birth to the child in the privy, knifed it to death, and to still its cries threw it into the vault to conceal her shame, but says that she was mentally deranged. She is 21 years old, came from Germany to Chicago a year ago and to this city about a month ago. She and Carl Sarbly, the reputed father, are arrested for murder. They came from Germany together and are said to be cousins.

A Texas Execution.

JACKSBORO, March 19.—The dead body of an unknown man, but supposed to be a horse thief, was found to-day in Howard valley, nine miles from Jacksboro, hanging by the neck and containing nine bullet holes. Executioners unknown.

Bridge Burned.

CINCINNATI, March 20.—A Gazette dispatch from Circleville reports that a covered bridge over the Scioto, 500 feet long, was destroyed by fire this morning. It was built 40 years ago and cost $40,000; insured $15,000; supposed incendiary. The aqueduct narrowly escaped firing from the burning bridge timbers.

Soldiers' Reunion.

The committee of arrangements for a meeting of the army of Tennessee to-night decided to change the programme and hold meetings of reunion April 6th and 7th, at Music hall instead of Pike's opera house. This was caused by the rush of applicants for spectators' tickets.

Mississippi and Gulf Shipments.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—Since the opening of navigation—February 18th—to date there has been shipped from this city to New Orleans, for foreign account, an aggregate of 2,2[illegible]07 bushels of grain.

Shipment via the Gulf.

ST. LOUIS, March 20.—The tow boat Jay Gould and barges left here to-day with 221,590 bushels of bulk corn and 50,000 bushels of bulk wheat, equal to 6000 tons, for New Orleans, to be transhipped there for Europe. The tow boat Future City also left for the same port with four barges of bulk grain, but the number of bushels cannot be given.

A Bargain Off.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—The negotiations mentioned in these dispatches yesterday as pending between parties here and in San Francisco respecting freight rates on wheat by river to New Orleans, are now considered off and will not likely be reopened, and so far as is known here the project of forwarding California wheat to St. Louis for foreign shipment via the Mississippi river to New Orleans, if ever seriously entertained, has been abandoned.

Socialists Meeting at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 20.—Socialists at a regular Sunday night meeting to-night passed resolutions approving of the killing of the czar who they said was a boulder in the pathway of human progress, and had to be blown out of the way. They also criticised severely Secretary Blaine's action in sending a message of sympathy to the Russian government.

Lost on Lake Michigan.

The tugboat O. B. Green, which has been making daily trips to the crib, did not return last night and to-day she was sighted ice-bound, four miles from shore. This afternoon a man in a boat was dispatched with provisions for the seven men on the tugboat. Before reaching the tug the boat and the tug were lost sight of. It is feared that the man in the small boat has been lost and possibly the tug and her crew.

A SPRING BLIZZARD.

Another Heavy Snow Storm at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Another "worst storm of the season" set in early this morning, and up to this hour (noon) snow has been falling rapidly, so that it lies three to four inches on a level. A fierce wind accompanied it, but so solid was the snow that it did not drift perceptibly, and the wet and solid mass lies on the streets and pavements like so much ice. Street cars generally arrived on time, as they were nearly here when the storm began, but street cars, after keeping up the battle for two or three hours sought their barns. Snow plows took their place on the tracks and attempted to clear the way, but with little success, for the six and eight horses were unable to keep snow from the tracks. The streets were black with pedestrians during the morning and later busses and carriages were impressed to accommodate travel. Telegraph wires are weather bound to most of the principal points and in the city there is great interruption to telephone and district telegraph business. Wires look like two inch ropes with their heavy wrapping of snow. Inquiry at railroad offices shows that the storm was not severe in the north but extended west as far as Omaha, south to St. Louis and Kansas City and east on the Fort Wayne and Fort Wayne as far as Crestline. Railroad men say that there will undoubtedly be great delays if the storm continues much longer as it is of the most dangerous character of any this season.

More of the Storm at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Affairs in the streets have gone from bad to worse on account of the storm, but at present the snow which has been falling rapidly since 5:30 this morning is beginning to come less heavily, and will probably stop falling entirely soon. The result of to-day's storm is from six to eight inches of exceedingly compact snow, which is so solid that pedestrians can walk on top of it without perceptibly reducing its height. The thermometer has been very near but a trifle above the freezing point all day, and is now slowly rising. Morning trains arrived very closely on time, but to-night there are serious delays on all lines. All freight trains are abandoned. The Northwestern road sent out only one train to Milwaukee, and no others except to the suburbs. The C., B. & Q. trains are blockaded. The Alton train arrived an hour late. Illinois Central trains are slow but running with some regularity. The Michigan Central is far behind, and sent out only one train to-night. The Michigan Southern trains were delayed by a bad track fifty miles from the city, and incoming trains were six hours late. The Pittsburg and Fort Wayne road justified its reputation by sending out all its trains on time. Roads not particularly mentioned in the above report have either abandoned all trains or run only to suburbs. Wires being prostrated in nearly every direction, it is impossible to learn the fate of trains which have gone out, and may be blockaded only a few miles from the city. There has been almost a complete stoppage of travel and traffic in the city and to-night not a street car is running. Snow is piled up between car tracks and sidewalks so high and firmly that it is impossible to crowd it back from the tracks. It is a problem of vital interest to citizens as to how long the present state of affairs is to continue. Nothing but heavy rain or very warm weather will afford speedy relief from the embargo and there would be a flood if either of these came about.

Snow Storm at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, March 19.—A terrible snow storm raged since an early hour this morning; the worst of the season because of the snow being heavy with moisture and accompanied by a very high wind. Wires down in places and trains are certain to be blockaded.

The storm of to-day is the worst of the entire season. A very high wind prevails and snow is very heavy. All railroad trains are blockaded, street car lines and business generally suspended.

At St. Louis and Throughout Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—The heaviest snow storm of the winter prevailed here all day, with a strong driving wind from the west, but the snow melted as fast as it fell. The streets to-night are filled with slush, in some places several inches deep. Dispatches from different parts of the state say that the heaviest snow of the season has fallen since last night, especially north of the Missouri river. The average depth of the snow is over a foot, but in some places it is two feet deep. Railroad travel is a good deal impeded and business is suffering but no trains are reported abandoned. The snow will probably disappear in two or three days, and freshets in small streams may be expected.

Snow in Kansas and Missouri.

There was a heavy snow fall in Kansas and western Missouri yesterday and last night.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—Considerable snow has fallen, but melted as it fell.

A Pork Diet in Maine.

[Brunswick (Me.) Telegraph.]

A gentleman and lady in the month of August boarded in an interior town with a widow and her two daughters. Soda bread hot at every meal and pork were the diet; never a bit of meat nor a chicken killed, not an egg cooked, and never a vegetable plucked from the garden, nor milk offered in quantities to be drank. Other parties boarded two weeks on the seacoast in the month of August, and ate hot soda bread and fish, not once seeing a bit of fresh meat of any kind. The cooking was excellent of its kind, and the table and house were as neat as wax-work. We heard a gentleman say the other day that in his father's family of ten or twelve people in the country, at least 1,700 pounds of pork were consumed during the winter. That beats the record of old Judge Seward, of the last century, who lived at York, and who recorded sulphurously in one of his almanacs: "Put in 1,200 pounds of pork for the winter, the least amount I ever put in."

A Wonderful Fact.

[From a recent sermon by David Swing.]

Whoever will read Cicero's twilight speculations about duty and the future life, remembering that perhaps he was the fullest man of antiquity, the ripest scholar and student of the highest period of civilization, and remembering that from the birth of Cicero to the birth of Christ the only change that came to civilization was a decline, and that Jesus belonged to an out-of-the-way people—a people apart from the high tides of human greatness—and then will read the sermon on the mount. I cannot comprehend how he can escape the conclusion that the difference is not one of degree, but of kind. That Jesus, surrounded as he was, could have promulgated a system of morals embodying all that is most valuable in the prior life of the world, and to which nineteen centuries of civilization have been unable to add a thought or impart an ornament, is a fact not to be explained by any ridicule.

Very Full Praise.

[From the Chicago Times.]

On the whole, the initial deliverance of President Garfield is the freshest, frankest and most healthful in its tone of any presidential deliverance the public has read in a very long time. It is the deliverance of a man who not only has ideas, but has them thoroughly in hand.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Probabilities in the Extra Session Question.

THE MORMON POLICY OF THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

Democratic Senators United in Opposition to Change of Officers—The Speakership of the House—Etc., Etc., Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Several republican senators among whom are Ingalls and Blair, think that the republicans should stop with the committees and let the democrats hold the senate offices until December, unless an extra session should be called. The democrats are united in the determination to fight against the proposed change of officers. Bayard, Hampton and several others who advocated a policy of general surrender, have been overruled by the voice of the caucus, and the opinion now is that the officers will not be changed until December unless an extra session of congress is called.

The Speakership—Hiscock and Kasson the Principal Candidates.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The increasing probability that an extra session of congress will be called is directing renewed attention to the speakership contest. The only eastern candidate of prominence is Frank Hiscock, of New York, who will be supported by the republicans of his own state and those of Pennsylvania and New England. The west has two prominent candidates, Kasson, of Iowa, and Keifer, of Ohio. Burrows, of Michigan, is also in the field, but has no considerable chance. The contest is generally believed to be between Hiscock and Kasson, with the prospect at present favoring the former. If it is decided to call an extra session this spring a successor for Minister Kasson at Vienna will be designated forthwith, and in anticipation of this probability a rumor is current that Minister Bingham will be transferred to Austria.

John Russell Young will be sent to Japan.

The Senate Affairs.

The republican senators have not yet canvassed upon the subject of moving for a change in the senate officers during this special session, and several of them are inclined to favor the retention of the present officers until the 47th congress shall have assembled in both branches, and especially if that event is likely to occur at an early day. It is urged that it would be rather "crowding the mourners" to throw the democratic officers and their subordinates out of employment so suddenly and upon such very short notice, and besides these considerations it will be in the power of the democrats to prevent any change in officers if they solidly abstain from voting on any resolution providing for a change, and thus break the requisite quorum. It is quite doubtful, however, whether all the democrats would consent to filibuster for this purpose, and if two of them or one democrat and Judge Davis vote with them in this way the republicans would be successful. Whenever the changes are made Geo. C. Gorham will undoubtedly be reelected secretary of the senate and James R. Young, of Pennsylvania, executive clerk. The office of sergeant-at-arms seems by common consent to be practically at the disposal of Senator Mahone, but it does not appear that he has yet decided upon a candidate acceptable to the republican caucus and this is probably the end of the delay in the whole matter.

Opposition to an Extra Session.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Commercial Bulletin's Washington special, usually well informed, thinks it unlikely that an extra session will be called. The president and Secretary Windom still oppose it. Nearly every democrat in the senate opposes it and so do over 30 of the 37 republican senators.

Don Cameron coming to the Pacific Coast.

Senator Cameron has invited a party to accompany him and his wife to California in his special car. Gen. Beale, wife and daughter, H. M. Hutchinson and probably Walker Blaine, are to be of the party. The intention is to start from Washington some time next week.

A Pretty Story.

The Star this evening has the following: When President Garfield was a representative in congress years ago he dropped in on United States Treasurer Spinner one day, and said: General Spinner, do you know that in one of the lower rooms of this building there is at work an old classmate of mine. He was wonderfully apt at college. He could beat me at my lessons and is quick and honest. What is the name said Spinner. Jas. Gilfillan, was the reply. Whereupon Treasurer Spinner sent for him, made arrangements to promote him and advanced him rapidly. The same Jas. Gilfillan is to-day the treasurer of the United States and a thoroughly efficient and honest officer as every body knows.

Garfield and the Mormons.

Gov. Murray, of Utah, who has been here since the last leaves for Salt Lake City to-night to resume his official duties. It was learned to-day from a trustworthy source that during a recent interview, President Garfield assured Governor Murray of his determination to use his every endeavor to suppress polygamy. It was further learned that the president has decided to renominate Gen. Rose, an anti-Mormon, to the position of receiver of public moneys at Salt Lake.

Appointments.

An order was issued by the war department to-day detailing Col. F. A. Rockwell as superintendent of the public buildings and grounds, in charge of the White House and public reservations and parks. Rockwell was a classmate of President Garfield at Williams College and they are warm personal friends. As a member of the president's household he will make presentations at the White House. Col. Casey will still retain supervision of the state, war and navy department buildings, the Washington monument and the Washington aqueduct.

Another Bond Rumor Denied.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A Washington special to Brooklyn Eagle says: A dispatch received here from Wall street says it is reported that the secretary of the treasury will make large purchases of bonds next Wednesday. The secretary says that there is not one word of truth in it. He says: "I don't say I won't buy bonds at some time, but I can truthfully say that I don't know when I will, nor to what amount. Nothing has been decided about the matter yet. Much will depend upon the question whether an extra session is or is not called."

A Place for Tyner.

Another Washington special states that First Assistant Postmaster General Tyner will go on the bench of the court of claims. He will be succeeded by Capt. Henry, of Ohio.

The St. Louis Land Fraud Exposures.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—It was on the recommendation of Secretary Schurz that the St. Louis land swindlers were arrested. The secretary obtained the information on which he acted from a friend. It is believed at the land office the ring have fraudulently obtained titles to more than a million of acres of public lands, most of which they have sold to innocent settlers, who therefore have no valid title to the land they occupy. Government officials say that it rests with the secretary of the interior and the attorney-general to decide whether civil suits shall be begun at once to vacate titles to these lands. It is believed that whatever is determined upon, it will be so arranged that the blow shall not fall too heavily upon thousands of duped settlers whose hitherto undisputed titles to their homes are rendered involved by this exposure.

THE MEXICAN RAILWAY SCHEME.

Details of the Bargain Between Palmer and Sullivan and the Mexican Government.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—The Republican to-morrow will publish an article on the narrow gauge railroad system of Mexico, which gives information not before made public. The statement is derived from the highest authority, and may be relied on. The Mexican government has granted very liberal subsidies to the projectors of the enterprise, who have organized under the name of the Mexican National Construction Company, with ex-Governor Hunt, of Colorado, as manager, and Gen. W. J. Palmer and James Sullivan occupying high positions. The road is to be known as the Mexican Central, and will be practically an extension of the Denver & Rio Grande road, although under different organization. Under the provisions of the grant, the Mexican National Construction Company is required to build first an inter-oceanic line from the City of Mexico to the Pacific ocean, passing through Toluca, Maravatio, Acambaro, Morelia, Zamora and Lagos to Manzanillo, or between that point and Navidad. Second, an international line from the City of Mexico to the northern frontier, commencing on the most desirable point between Maravatio and Morelia, then through San Luis Potosi, Saltillo and Monterey to Laredo on the Rio Grande, or between that point and Eagle Pass.

Although the grant was issued last fall, but few if any of the details have been published. The company is required to complete 277 miles of road every two years. The inter-oceanic line must be completed within five years, and the international within eight years, from last September. The required gauge is three English feet. The company in transferring any of its rights is required to finish the line before any part of it can be alienated.

Any other company receiving such transfer must have a capital stock of not less than one million dollars, ten per cent. of which must be paid in and liability limited to par value of shares. Under the subsidy proper, the government gives the company $11,265 per mile of road constructed on the line from Mexico city to the Pacific, and [illegible] per mile on the line to the northern frontier. The government will begin to pay the subsidy on completion of the first 12 miles on the line from Mexico to the Pacific. Freedom from import duties on all supplies needed in construction of the road is guaranteed by the government. Passengers and merchandise in transit are not to be taxed, or mails either, all of which will be freed from customs or port duty for fifteen years from completion lines, and freedom from all federal, state and local taxes for 50 years after completion is also guaranteed. To indemnify the government against failure to build the line, the parties taking the concession through James Sullivan, deposited $300,000 cash in the National Monte De Piedad which is to remain on deposit until 60 miles from Mexico City to the Pacific are completed. The amount can be withdrawn and substituted then for an equal amount of first mortgage bonds of the R. R. Co. The entire line when completed will be about two thousand miles long.

The Republican also has information from a high official of the Denver and Rio Grande Co. that the road will be completed to Laredo within two years. The line is now finished to Santa Cruz, New Mexico, and is being vigorously pushed southward. The uncompleted road from Corpus Christi, Texas, to the mouth of the Rio Grande to Laredo has recently been purchased by the Denver and Rio Grande Co., and a forty-mile gap in it will be finished as speedily as gradings and track laying can be accomplished. When the work is done it will afford connection between Laredo and Galveston, New Orleans and other gulf ports, and be of great aid in transportation of supplies, iron, etc., to the contractors on the Mexican line proper.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Funeral Procession of Gen. Emory Upton at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The funeral of Gen. Emory Upton to-day was the largest military demonstration since the obsequies of General Canby. Three thousand sabres and muskets were in line. The ceremony began at Presidio, where at 2 P. M. the remains, received with honors and escorted by the 4th artillery, 600 strong, were taken to Van Ness avenue where the second brigade of the National Guard, Brigadier General McComb commanding, met the cortege and escorted it to Washington street wharf. At that point the body was put on board the government tug, Gen. McPherson, and taken to Oakland wharf with a guard of honor from the 4th artillery, to-night, and will be forwarded east under charge of Captains John Eagan and John R. Campbell of the 4th artillery, to-morrow. The pall bearers were Major Gen. Irwin McDowell, U. S. A.; Major Gen. W. H. L. Barnes, National Guard; Col. A. V. Kautz, 8th regular infantry; Col. W. R. Smedberg, National Guard; Major G. V. Henry, 5th cavalry, U. S. A. and Capt. Henry Hasbrouck, 4th artillery, U. S. A. Along the line of procession flags were displayed at half mast and a great number of buildings, and along the water front shipping and shipping were draped in customary mourning style. The streets were densely crowded on the line of march.

Too Much Brain Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The theory that the suicide of General Upton was the result of an overtaxed brain seems to be borne out by the following letter written on the day preceding the night of his death which was found among his papers after the inquest:

PRESIDIO, San Francisco, March 14.

To the Adjutant General, United States Army, Sir: I hereby tender my resignation as colonel of the fourth artillery. Your obedient servant,

E. UPTON, Colonel Fourth Artillery.

The theory seems to be that this was written with a view of securing some relief from work and more time for the revision of his tactics.

The Kalloch Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—In the Kalloch trial this morning Alex. Campbell opened his argument for the prosecution. It is not at all likely that the case will go to the jury before early next week.

ARIZONA.

The Robber Hunt.

BENSON, March 19.—Sheriff Behan and Marshal Williams just came in and report that the pursuing party came nearly up to the robbers last night and exchanged shots with them. At 3 this morning they left Paul and returned to Benson for help. A posse in charge of Behan and Marshal Williams and accompanied by Special Agent of W. F. & Co., detective force leaves to-morrow and will be guided to the trail. It is believed here that Paul has certainly corralled the robbers in the Santa Catalina mountains and that they will be brought in dead or alive inside of forty-eight hours. The pursuing party captured one of the horses of the fleeing party Friday night.

W. Palmer, E. J. Moss, J. M. Haynes, Mr. Howard, Mrs. Howard, Mr. Tilley, O. S. Weston, Mrs. Capt. J. T. Kingsbury and two children, Mrs. S. M. Buck and 29 in the steerage. She also carried a small freight.

AN APPEAL TO THE QUEEN.

Proposed in Behalf of British Columbia's Bargain with Canada.

VICTORIA, March 17.—In the house last night the premier gave notice of the following resolution:

Whereas, Information has been received from the Hon. A. DeCosmos, the special agent deputed on behalf of this province to confer with the Dominion government and press upon them the necessity of their fulfilling their railway obligations towards British Columbia, that he has been unable to obtain from that government any assurance that the island section of the Canadian Pacific railway will be constructed within any fixed period; and

Whereas, The original agreement respecting railway construction which was contained in the treaty of union will expire in a few months without its conditions having been fulfilled either in letter or spirit. be it therefore

Resolved, In view of these facts and of the grave importance of the subject to the province that a petition be addressed by this house to her most gracious majesty the queen, setting forth such facts as may be necessary to fully place the question before her majesty, and praying that her majesty will be pleased to cause the Dominion government to be moved to do justice to the province; and further, that it is advisable in the opinion of this house that the said petition when approved of by this house be signed by the speaker and forwarded by the government to the Hon. Mr. DeCosmos, with instructions to him to present the same to her majesty as soon as possible and to support the prayer thereof.

The Wool Show in London.

A wool show is to be held at the Crystal Palace of London from June to October, 1881. The exhibition will include not only wool in every form or stage of preparation from the fleece as it comes from the sheep's back to woolen yarn ready for the loom, but it will also include woolen goods of every class known to woolen manufacturers and all kinds of machinery used in the preparation and manufacture of woolen goods. Here is a first-rate opportunity for America to compare the workings of one of her great industries, running from the production of raw material through every stage of approach to completion, with the like industry in every other country, and whether she is behind or ahead of other nations in this respect. The opportunity is offered to learn a great many valuable practical things. The wool producers and manufacturers of our country should embrace this opportunity and profit by the lessons that may be learned from it. It is said that we are ahead of all other nations in the wooden machinery in use in many branches of manufacture, while we may be behind in that in use in many other branches. This exhibition will enable us at least to improve where improvement is important so as to bring us up in every department to the best stage of advancement. At the same time other nations will be able to bring their position up to our best excellence, and thus the world will be greatly benefited all round. It will be remembered that at the World's Fair held at Paris, one of our California woolen mills brought away the first prize for California manufactured woolen blankets. With such a record our manufacturers should not neglect an opportunity to show that we have kept up with the advances of the age in the great wool industries. Let our woolen and manufactured goods be placed on exhibition at the great wool show to open in June next, and let us be represented there in a manner that will enable us to learn all that other people there in advance of us, either as wool producers or wool manufacturers.

President Hayes.

[From the Springfield Republican.]

There have been greater men in the presidential chair, men more brilliant, more wavering to the heart of the swaying crowd, some more quaint and lovable, some more heroic and grandly but there have been few men who have met with them drum questions of a peaceful era with a purer purpose, a more equable temper, and a better judgment, or who have won more deeply the confidence of the sober and reflecting mass of the people.

A Timely Suggestion.

[From the Ohio State Journal.]

That Ohio went democratic the next year after every presidential election ever since the war, and that every republican legislature has been followed by a democratic one, and a very bad one at that, during the same period, are matters that suggest the propriety of putting up our best timber for governor and for the legislative offices this summer.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The English Cotton Receiving Port.

LONDON, March 19.—The Oldham cotton spinning companies have resolved in favor of Gloucester as a cotton receiving port instead of Liverpool, owing to the lighter harbor dues at the first named port. Two ships with American cotton have already arrived at Gloucester.

The Lord Mayor Warned.

LONDON, March 19.—It is said that forty pounds of powder was packed in the box discovered under the Mansion House window. The lord mayor has a number of telegrams from the American colonies congratulating him upon his escape. He has also received threatening letters.

DUBLIN, March 20.—Ratcliffe has been convicted of committing an outrage on Bannders at Cork near Castle Island and sentenced to ten years imprisonment.

England's Shameless Socialists.

LONDON, March 19.—The Freiheit, organ of the social democrats in London, appears to-day with a wide red border, and its first article is headed "At last." The article begins as follows: "Triumph! Triumph! One of the most abominable tyrants is no more."

The New Czar will aid his Peasant Subjects.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 19.—The Russian Official is said to be to do everything for agricultural interests represented by peasants. The following proposals are said to be under consideration: Imperial ukase to be issued on the day of coronation, thus giving evidence of the first purpose of his own will. Firstly, to promote internal colonization by migration of peasants to rich unoccupied lands, funds being provided therefor; secondly, to give more land to peasants generally, and thirdly to liberate peasants from an extravagant regime of passports and landed proprietors. All other sections, such as capitalists, manufacturers, artists and literature, being regarded in certain quarters as more or less disaffected.

An imperial ukase has been issued which confirms and maintains the religion, laws and privileges of Finland.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 19.—As at present arranged the coronation of the czar will take place at Moscow on the expiration of the period of deep mourning, the imperial party remaining at Moscow until the end of the year.

Easy on the Peasants.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 20th.—Payment due from peasants for lands allotted them on the abolition of serfdom are about to be reduced in twenty-five governments by 40 to 70 per cent. The total reduction aggregating 9,000,000 rubles yearly.

The Pope and Russia.

VIENNA, March 19.—The pope has written to Catholic and United Greek bishops in Russia instructing them to order requiem masses celebrated in the churches of their dioceses for the late czar, and requesting them to issue pastorals requiring loyalty to the new czar. The pope at the same time announces the freedom of the Catholic church in Russia, agreed upon by the late emperor, will be maintained by his successor.

Preparations for the Funeral.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—The body of the emperor will be removed to Petropavlovsk fortress Saturday. All houses, shops and public buildings will be draped in black and white. The police scar bers all houses on the way to the fortress. Michael riding school. All houses on the line along the route which the funeral will take are required to admit any strangers into their dwellings to witness the procession, except of their own disposal.

The Russian Capital in Mourning.

Mourning flags hang from every building in St. Petersburg.

The Czar's Funeral Procession.

Besides (all the) ways of the body of the czar to the fortress St. Peter and Paul Fortress to-day was completed with great pomp. Following was the order of the procession: Immediately behind the car walked the emperor, the grand dukes and foreign princes, and court grandees, mourning carriages with the empress and her children and the grand duchess, then the late emperor's horse, then the men, bearing his orders, a hundred and thirty two Russian and foreign decorations and others bearing the state crowns, the last of the number being the imperial crown of Russia. Following these came the clergy, dressed in black velvet embroidered with silver, next came the funeral car, richly ornamented with gold, drawn by eight horses; the ten oldest generals in the army holding the cords of the pall.

Dynamite Found.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 19.—The amount of dynamite found in the Nikolai street was eight pounds.

The Russian State Trials.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 20.—The preliminary judicial inquiry into the murder of the czar was concluded yesterday, and the minutes were handed to Procurator Muravieff, who will be one of the state prosecutors before a special tribunal appointed to try the accused. The persons to be tried are Sophia Rysakoff, who confesses that he threw one of the bombs, Andrei Zeliaboff, who confesses that he participated in the preparation for the murder, Timofei Michaeloff, who on his arrest at Birzhoff shot a policeman, and lastly a woman named Hesse Helfmann, charged with being an accomplice of Navrotski, who committed suicide when the police entered his house.

Official Investigations at St. Petersburg.

Major General Mravinsky, belonging to the prefecture of police, who was first deputed to search the cheese maker's shop in Little Garden street and who reported that he found nothing suspicious is being subjected to a judicial examination, and it is thought this investigation will lead to the resignation of the prefect of police.

Russian Items.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 20.—The man and woman who occupied the shop where the mine was discovered near the residence of the new emperor have been arrested at Cronstadt.

It has been decided to erect a church where the assassination occurred.

Rousakoff is being tortured.

A German View.

BERLIN, March 20.—Great satisfaction is felt here for the letter from the Russian foreign office. It is said to strictly the intimacy with autocrat. A great letter from the czar to the emperor. The alliance relating to [illegible] congress of the [illegible] of material intrigues is again ventilated here.

Another Statement.

LONDON, March 19.—A Vienna correspondent states that the report of the resignation of Baron Von Haymerle is false. Baron Von Haymerle telegraphed a message of condolence to St. Petersburg immediately after he received news of the assassination.

Further Demands on the Porte.

The Standard says: There are good grounds for saying that ambassadors will propose that the porte shall cede Crete and Thessaly and perhaps a strip of Epirus. War is almost inevitable on account of the attitude of Austria and Germany, and we believe that the powers have notified Greece and Turkey that the latter will not be permitted to send ships to Greek waters.

War in the East Probable.

LONDON, March 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette in a leading article, says all news from the east is ominous of war. Crete is the maximum which the Turks will cede. The cession of Crete and Thessaly is the minimum which the powers will accept. Unless means can be found to bring the minimum near the maximum, the Greeks will cross the frontier and war will begin which may not close until it has spread far beyond the limits of the Ottoman empire.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 19.—It is believed that to-day's meeting of ambassadors and Ottoman delegates has been an important one. Delegates were furnished with detailed instructions regarding the territory which the porte is willing to cede to Greece. Two transports are embarking 6000 troops for Volo.

An Injudicious Editor.

COPENHAGEN, March 20.—At the instance of the Russian minister the editor of a socialist newspaper has been arrested and will be prosecuted for insulting Russia.

Disastrous Fires in the far East.

BERLIN, March 19.—The towns of Tuebol, on the Black sea, and Vlendin in Austria, are reported nearly all destroyed by fire yesterday. Three hundred and fifteen houses, including the custom house and foreign consulates were burned at Tuebol.

War Operation in South Africa.

NEWCASTLE, Natal, March 18.—Despite pending negotiations, British troops are being vigorously pushed toward the camp at Mount Prospect, and it is rumored that the Boers are fortifying all passes. The Boers now acknowledge that they lost 51 men in the battle at Majuba Hill.

LONDON, March 19.—The Boers are strongly fortifying their position on the right flank and the other side of Majuba hill. Gen. Wood is striving hard for peace. Commander Joubert denies that Aylward holds any official position.

French Affairs.

PARIS, March 19.—The Republique Francaise states that on the question of scrutin de liste it is one that concerns the chamber only, the chamber should solve it in the plenitude of its independent sovereignty.

PARIS, March 19.—After a cabinet council to-day upon the scrutin de liste system of voting by departments, rumors were circulated of a ministerial crisis. The Liberte says: "The result of the forthcoming debate on this question in the chamber of deputies must inevitably involve a fatal blow to President Grevy or Gambetta—the French socialist."

PARIS, March 19.—The senate to-day rejected, by a vote of 182 to 120, the duties fixed by the tariff commissioners on yarns and cottons, which were about 25 per cent. above the duties adopted by the chamber of deputies.

PARIS, March 19.—In consequence of the banquets yesterday of the extreme radicals celebrating the anniversary of the outbreak of the commune, the police have arrested several persons, including Terzeoff, chief of the nihilists in Paris and a German socialist named David. Custom house officials have seized on the frontier two portmanteaus containing photographs with all the nihilists were endeavoring to carry into France. The French ship Jorade embarked with a quantity of orsine bombs at Hamptons for St. Petersburg, but on putting into Dunkirk, the captain learning of the assassination of the Czar, immediately denounced the Russian consul of the nature of his cargo.

"I Can Wait."

PARIS, March 20.—Gambetta, speaking at a meeting of the union of commerce, 800 persons present, said that he had always used and should never cease to repeat the words, "I can wait."

Attempt at Assassination at Madrid.

MADRID, March 20.—Several petards exploded Saturday night in the streets supposed directed against the prefect of police who recently closed gambling houses.

WINTER'S FLOODS.

Their Increasing Frequency and the Lessons they Teach.

Perhaps, at this time, when we are just in the wake of the late destructive freshets, no subject would engross more interest among our agriculturist, stock and warehouse men than a correct understanding of the causes producing such unexpected and destructive floods. In this article it is, therefore, the purpose of the writer to lay before those whom it may concern the facts that have presented themselves to him by a thorough study of Oregon's physical history.

When the hills and mountains that skirt and wall in the valley of the Willamette river were bald or destitute of foliage and forestry, the river had then a much larger channel than it has at the present time. The evidences support this statement are everywhere visible. The Portlander has only to step across the river and take a view of the broad capacious river bed which was outlet to Asylum creek. That deep and wide water course was necessary to carry off the water which fell in torrents on the naked hills and came rushing down unchecked by any forestry, foliage or accumulated drift wood. On the crest of its banks may be seen the foot prints of the rapid flowing waters. Or take the deep gulch spanned by Fourth street bridge, the formidable river bed south of McMinnville, the great estuary south of Amity, and many others of the same class; all were at certain times the courses of powerful streams flowing down with relentless fury, leaving their records hieroglyphed on their banks. But all these are now traversed by mere branches, though amply sufficient for the changed condition of the country and its landscape.

Before the hills and mountains took on their robes of forestry the rain falling on them in torrents, as it generally does in such countries, flowing rapidly off filled those old conduits to the utmost capacity.

But when the valleys and plains began to take on their green sward and the hills draped in robes of green foliage, forming great water sheds, holding and impeding the flow of the water; then all those old water courses began to narrow down and assume less gigantic proportions.

This process of adjustment continued till the advent of the white man, when we find the hills and canyons, and mountains covered with dense forest and shrubbery. This thick entangled forest with its ranks of fallen trees and creeping vines imbedded with leaves all served to impede the rapid flow of water, causing it to seep down through the earth, giving us our pure springs of sparkling water, so refreshing to man and beast. Thus the forces of nature work.

The ground on which a large part of the cities of Portland and East Portland are built has been placed there since the hills and mountains received their leafy water sheds.

The low lands along the Willamette and Columbia rivers all show unmistakable evidences of how admirably the forces of nature have done their work. But the onward march of civilization with her progressive band of industry, has arrested the further progress of these forces in this direction, and turned them into new channels, the tendency of which is to revert back to original conditions. Civilization has clipped the grassy fleece from plain, table and upland lands; beaver dams, swales and marshes have been drained, giving the waters free outlet. Farmers have their meadows closely mowed and well drained; their fields bare and naked; while loggers and homesteaders have removed fallen trees and drift-wood from streams and rivers tributary to the Willamette, giving the most easy and rapid flow of water from the land. And now we are beginning to see the effect and feel the weight of those new forces.

Their tendency will be to give us more sudden and higher freshets in winter, and less water in our river beds in summer.

There is no speculation involved in this statement. For the writer has seen streams in California, Nevada and Colorado mere rivulets and easily fordable at certain times; but in one hour afterwards, swollen to impassable rivers by the rapid flow of the torrents rushing down their barren hillsides. Floods of this kind cease as suddenly as they come.

Again in the Willamette valley there are today hundreds of springs whose waters fifteen years ago mingled with those of the Willamette, that are now dried up, or so nearly so that their waters never reach the main river.

In the face of such physical truths, it is mainly to complain and lament over losses, the prevention of which lies within the reach of all by the exercise of a larger knowledge and a better will.

It is true, the damage done during the late freshets by the deposit of sand, gravel, drift-wood and other materials on farm and meadow lands cannot be entirely avoided. But, while this is so, the blind stupidity or negligence that allows farming utensils to be washed away, stock drowned, and tons of wheat destroyed, is simply inexcusable, and deserves no pity, but rather the condemnation which the loss sustained is merciless enough to inflict. Were we living in an age before the advent of railroads, the daily press and the telegraph, there might possibly be some excuse for such inattention and consequent loss. But in this age, when the state of the weather and the condition of the rivers are daily reported, there is no excuse deserved. What is most needed is not more knowledge—for that is abundant—but a certain willingness to accept known truths.

In conclusion, it is only necessary to remark that the forces now at work, especially in the Willamette valley, will certainly produce more frequent and extensive floods in the rainy season, and lower river-beds in the dry season.

A. L. JOHNSON.

Carlyle's Powerful Influence.

[From the London News.]

The tyranny of the winter in 1881 would have had enough to make itself remembered if it had not carried off, in the person of Mr. Carlyle the acknowledged chief of English letters. We can most of us remember the sensation which was caused twenty years ago by the death of Macaulay; the loss of Dickens is fresh in every one's mind, and George Eliot's death is but a matter of the other day. But hardly even the most indiscreet admirers of these three great writers would place them on a level with the author fifty years ago and more of Sartor Resartus, and the author in days which are still almost recent of Frederick the Great. For thirty years at least his influence has always been an awakening influence—an influence tending to dispel humbug, to shatter mere idols of the cave and tribe, to impress on every man that "save his own soul he hath no star;" and that if he cannot keep that star bright and in view he had better sink at once and make no moan about it. Perhaps no one who has lived in England during the reign of Queen Victoria is a fair judge of his literary work; but no one who has not lived in that reign can ever be a judge of the extent to which he has fashioned the minds of men.

ALLITERATION.

As Milton defined rhyme to be "the jingling sound of like endings," so alliteration is the jingling of like beginnings. All language has a tendency to jingle both ways, even in prose. Thus in prose we speak of "near and dear," "high and dry," "health and wealth," etc., but the initial form of the jingle is much more common—"safe and sound," "thick and thin," "weal or woe," "fair or foul," "spick and span," "kith and kin." The poets of nearly all times and tongues have not been slow to seize upon the emphasis which could thus be produced. Accordingly we read in Shakespeare:

Full fathom five thy father lies.

In Gray:

Weave the warp and weave the woof,
The winding-sheet of Edward's race.

In Coleridge:

The fair breeze blew, the white foam flew,
The furrow followed free.

And Churchill describes himself as one

Who often, but without success, had prayed
For apt alliteration's artful aid, an example which is in itself a proof that failure for alliteration is seldom effective unless it runs upon consonants. "Alliteration is wholly dependent on the poet's fancy; he may avoid it altogether, or he may 'run it into the ground.'" But there is an extensive range of poetry whose metrical laws are based entirely on alliteration. This is on the principle which Icelandic or Old Norse verse was founded and which came from them to the Anglo-Saxon poets, and from them to the immediate predecessors of Shakespeare. From the Icelandic the use of alliteration has not yet disappeared. For many centuries it was the only form of verse, rhymes and rythm being unknown. The accent being thrown on the alliterative syllables naturally produced the cadence which answered for our rhythm.

Wits sometimes use alliteration to sharpen the points of their satire, as Sidney Smith, who, in contrasting the conditions of a dignitary of the English church and a poor curate, wrote of them as "The Right Reverend Dives in the palace, and Lazarus-in-orders at the gate doctored by dogs and comforted with crumbs."

Every reader knows—and many by heart—the ridiculous jingle of the alphabet, beginning, "An Austrian army awfully arrayed."

Take up almost any English book of verse, and alliteration will be found in abundance. Pope used it constantly, and lesser lights are in the same category. Even the Ayrshire plowman found that "man was made to mourn," and the ignorant boy of to-day says to his girl, "The rose is red, the violet blue; sugar is sweet and so are you."

Look into Tennyson's works and see how hard he works the letter s, a consonant generally denounced as having no business in poetry. "Slow sailed the weary mariners, and saw;" "She sat between the shining." "Snow stood sunset flushed;" "Surely, surely, slumber is more sweet;" "Squadrons and squares of men;" "So shape chased shape as swift;" "Slow, full words sank through the silence;" "The slight she slips of loyal blood." "Sometimes I let a sunbeam slip!" and "She turned, her bosom shaken with a sudden storm of sighs." But I forbear, and turn to Swinburne only to find that in alliteration he "out-Herods Herod."

Old sayings and proverbs are full of alliteration; "Care killeth the cat;" "Neither fish, flesh nor fowl;" "Like master, like man;" and "When the wine is in the wit is out," and so on without end. To the despair of the poor cockney a favorite poem has the line "The heart that is humble might hope for it here."

No doubt there are remarkable alliterations in the Bible.

Inasmuch as this article was intended mainly to suggest that perhaps our English tendency to use alliteration has come down in our blood from the Northmen, who were in England long before the Anglo-Saxons, enough has been said to call attention to the query.

But there is a lower alliterative tendency that has become a positive mania with some of the newspapers of the day in the headings of their articles. Ships are no longer driven ashore; they are "Pounded by Billows;" if a house is burned, it is "Fed to the Fire Fiend;" to commit suicide is to "Kick the Coil." Out west, recently, a mother murdered a child, and the newspaper said she had "Killed Her Kid." These sensational headings are sometimes even blasphemous. The disease amounts to an epidemic; news editors lie awake of nights racking their brains for a "shocking, sudden sensation" head of an article about next to nothing at all. Let us hope the epidemic will soon run its course, for it is now at the height, and one hardly dares put pen or pencil to paper lest the disease might suddenly develop in some extravagant enormity of expression.

WRINKLED FACES.

It is a painful sight to see young ladies in their teens with wrinkled and prematurely old faces nevertheless it is quite common and to any one who observes the tendency of the times the reason is very apparent. Owing to flaming advertisements and bogus certificates, in which are used the names of eminent physicians and chemists, the unsuspecting and credulous have been induced to use some of the so-called liquid beautifiers, all of which are known to be positively injurious and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will be next to impossible to restore it. Mothers should be very careful to see that their daughters do not use these preparations but use for and obtain Slaven's Harmless Yosemite Face Powder, the only harmless beautifier. Swallowing

POISON

Spurts of disgusting mucous from the nostrils or upon the tonsils, Watery Eyes, Snuffles, Buzzing in the Ears, Deafness, Crackling sensations in the Head, Intermittent Pains over the Eyes, Fœtid Breath, Nasal Twang, Scabs in the Nostrils, and Tickling in the Throat are

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and undermining malady curses mankind. One-fifth of our Children die of diseases generated by its Infectious Poison and one-fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system.

Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure absorbs the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our judgment, has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

EXHAUSTION OF THE STOCK RANGES.

Owners of herds in Oregon and Washington are not singular in the experience they have met during the past winter. The fact is, the usefulness of the great plains as a stock range is about exhausted. A few years more, and the whole country from British Columbia and Manitoba to Mexico and Texas will be worthless for winter range, and therefore no longer profitable for stock raising on the method hitherto pursued. Nor has loss of stock during the past winter been caused by cold alone. It is stated that the region crossed by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad is for hundreds of miles a great cattle graveyard. All along the Arkansas river from the car windows can be seen thousands of dead cattle. Many are lying close to the track, but back as far as the eye can reach the plains and elevations are strewn with carcasses. The condition of the comparatively few animals that survive is pitiable in the extreme. A correspondent who has been investigating the subject for a Chicago journal, sums up the winter's losses of cattle in western Kansas and southwestern quarter of Colorado alone, at 125,000 head. And sheep have suffered even more. It is estimated that at the beginning of winter there were in southern Colorado 600,000 sheep, and in New Mexico at least 1,000,000. In some locations there has been less loss than in others; but taking the country through, the herders have lost from thirty to fifty per cent. It is calculated, therefore, that the loss of sheep in the country north of Las Vegas, New Mexico, is not less than 500,000 head.

It is apparent enough that, except in a few localities, the great stock ranges between the Missouri river and the western mountains are almost or quite exhausted, and can no longer be depended on for keeping cattle and sheep in considerable numbers throughout the year. The old system of keeping herds is practically at an end. Even in summer and fall grass now is scarce; so much so that cattle were as poor at the beginning of last winter as they formerly were after a severe winter was ended. The "ranch" system must give way to methodical industry. Nor is this to be regretted. On the contrary, the change will be for the better. Farms will be made wherever the fertility of the country will permit, and the labor of animals will be utilized in cultivation of the soil to support both man and beast. A cluster of well cultivated farms, though occupying but a single township, is a center of civilization and industry, and worth more for every human purpose than a million square miles given up to herds, with adobe huts from ten to one hundred miles apart, each a rendezvous for three or four men, whose time is divided between skurrying about on Indian ponies and playing cards on a dirty blanket. A great civilizing agent is cold. It forces man to industry in order to protect himself and his property against it. All the possibilities of the best development of society lie in this one most simple and primary fact. Otherwise, man everywhere would be in much the same condition as that in which he is found in the country of the date palm, where he lies naked in the shade and reaches up when he is hungry for the fruit to satisfy his only want.

It may be assured that those who are most skeptical in regard to the Villard combination to control the Northern Pacific entertain no doubt that this combination has taken up vast quantities of the stock. So much is not questioned. It is not probable that Mr. Villard and his associates would have formed their plan to secure this stock, with a view of obtaining a controlling interest; that they would have embarked many millions of money in it, secured all the stock they wanted and then announced that their undertaking had been entirely successful, unless they had actually accomplished it. Again, it is as little probable that the scheme would have been undertaken at all unless it were to be made successful. Why should they want to go so largely into Northern Pacific stock unless they were to obtain control? But it is not necessary to speak of probabilities. The facts remain as reported hitherto by this paper. They who question them hardly have the means of knowing so well as Mr. Villard and his associates what amount of stock the combination has secured;—and our information comes direct from that quarter. Moreover, there is confirmation of it—were confirmation necessary—from a great number of other sources,—that is, from press reports and specials to various journals, and from private telegrams and letters received here by leading business men from correspondents in New York. When the time is ripe for it, the purposes of the syndicate will be developed and carried out. The paper at Tacoma asserts that the road will be built from Puget Sound over the Cascade mountains, and wants to quarrel with us on that proposition. Inasmuch as we have neither said nor intimated that the road would not be so built, the Tacoma paper is fighting its own man of straw. What we have done in this matter has simply been to publish the details of an important piece of news. The main statement came in the first instance from the most authoritative source from which such statement could be derived. It came too as a positive announcement, and is confirmed as positively by subsequent statements at length and in detail, from the same authoritative source. Other journals all over the country have dispatches relating to the subject, similar to those which we have published; and no journal has questioned the essential facts except the great paper at Tacoma.

We are getting on with these things. A bill is pending in the New York legislature to provide for the education and training of the pupils of the common schools of New York in the knowledge and practice of swimming and the use of life preservers. The board of education is directed to "purchase all things necessary or expedient to enable such instruction to be properly and successfully carried out," the entire expenses of such instruction to be paid out of the funds raised by taxation for the support of common schools. The Evening Post asks:

> Do the taxpayers of the city and county of New York desire swimming and a knowledge of the use of life preservers to be added at their expense to the list of polite accomplishments already taught in our public schools?

No journal that keeps pace with modern educational progress would ask a question of this kind. Government must now do everything for everybody. Shall the state allow its noble body of youth to grow up in ignorance of the art of swimming and run the chance of being drowned? The man who isn't in favor of adding swimming to the list of "polite accomplishments" taught in the schools can hardly be regarded as a real friend of popular education. He is an aristocrat, or an old fogy at the very least, and would suppress the glowing aspirations of all the thousands of ardent youth of both sexes who, if this chance be not afforded, will never in all probability have an opportunity to learn to swim. A few years hence the person who makes objection to instruction in swimming as a "branch" of public education, will probably be spoken of as severely as the man is who objects to French and fluxions as studies for the public schools. As the management of the public schools of Portland is eager to keep the "machine" here at even pace with progress made elsewhere, introducing all new suggestions and improvements, we venture to hope that this new "branch" will be considered. It can be "graded," be furnished with a superintendent and be made an additional ornament, as well as the greatest delight of the public school system.

The king of Burmah has a private theater, which no man but himself is permitted to attend. His majesty's four hundred and fifty wives are on the free list, and they make a pretty fair sized audience.

Running for office costs something else besides the loss of reputation incurred in the heat of the campaign, when slanders are recklessly invented to destroy the popularity of candidates. The Boston Herald lately said that in two Massachusetts districts last fall $80,000 was expended by the successful candidates to secure their election, and the Herald estimates the two Butler gubernatorial campaigns to have cost that statesman, personally, nearly or quite $250,000. The Springfield Republican mentions the names of two other congressmen, each of whom disbursed $30,000 to defeat his opponent. From these large figures it must be inferred that it is still considered in New England, at least, a distinguished honor to be a member of congress and one even more distinguished to be governor of Massachusetts. Certainly the salary of a congressman does not warrant a candidate to spend $30,000 or $40,000 to secure it; he pays for the honor exclusively, as the salary must be absorbed by the necessary cost of living in Washington. It has been hinted that congressmen have facilities by virtue of their office, to reimburse themselves for their extraordinary election expenses; but this insinuation is probably another slander coined by the defeated candidates who cannot afford to buy a majority of votes at so high a price. If, however, elections were as they should be, the campaign expenses of a candidate would be less than $300, instead of $80,000. They should include nothing but a proportion of the cost of printing and distributing tickets, of printing and posting handbills, of banners, and necessary public meetings. The real cost of these expensive contests is that of corruption, of the direct or indirect purchase of votes, and it should be vigorously eliminated from every campaign.

Shanghai correspondence of the London Times furnishes a sketch of events in China during the year 1880, from which it would appear that very little growth has been made in any direction. The system of drill in the army remains as of old, all "dexterity in the camps of defense, the old drill antics, contortions, and somersets, to frighten the enemy, is daily gone through in every barrack in China." The dispatches between the capital and the provinces are still carried on donkeys. The canals are all choked up and the public works are crumbling into ruin. There has been no progress at all in the development of the country by modern scientific appliances. The surveys made of coal and iron fields, which are known to exist in the Yangtsze valley, have come to nothing. The cotton-mill which was to have been built has been abandoned, and the woolen mills which were built some time ago at Lanchowfoo are not yet in operation. There is promise of telegraphs, but no performance. Explorers for petroleum in Formosa came back with broken heads. The only advance made is in the management of their steam navigation company, and of this the correspondent says: "For the first time in its history a proper amount has been written off the value of the company's fleet for depreciation and an honest and praiseworthy attempt made to cut down all useless expenditure and to put the company on a sound commercial basis. Its operations are to be extended to all foreign countries where Chinese merchants are established, and with this view two of its thirty steamers have begun to ply between China, the Sandwich Islands and California."

Mahone's course is a subject of general discussion. The democratic organs are quite unanimous in declaring that he has played it in a way they despise. The general tone of the republican press is that of mild approval, while Washington correspondence of the New York Herald presents the independent view, thus: "Mahone's course is not only honorable to him, but is wise for his state. It is bitterly denounced by a handful of Virginia republican spoilsmen, whose effort has been for many years to keep the republican party in their state as small as possible in order that each of these grumblers might have as much patronage to divide as possible. Mahone's position breaks the solid democracy of Virginia, and breaks the solid south, and Hill's abuse of Mahone will help to do it. Every legitimate interest in Virginia has reason to rejoice that Mahone is man enough to repudiate the Bourbons in the senate as he last year repudiated and defeated the Bourbons in his own state. If democratic senators like Hill of Georgia are furious, it is because they see that the intelligence and progressive spirit of the south are weary of the democratic party, recognizing that it is a hopeless organization as now constituted, and that in the south particularly it bars the way to all healthful progress."

Fifty thousand people were driven out of their houses at New Orleans by the late overflow of the Mississippi river, which is attributed in some measure to the jetties at the mouth. The Picayune says: "There has been a great strain upon the levees of the lower delta since the construction of the jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi river. Last year demonstrated that the parishes south of New Orleans have had the hazards of inundation largely increased by the great work which has made New Orleans the deepest port on the American continent." The river above was dammed in various places with a view of confining the water within the banks, and thereby deepening the channel at the jetties. If the surplus water had been allowed to run off as usual, New Orleans would probably have escaped the overflow of about five square miles of territory.

The condition of savings banks in the state of New York affords striking proof of the prosperity of the laboring classes. The annual report of the state superintendent shows that the number of depositors in these institutions on the 1st of January, 1881, was 89,25[illegible] greater than on January 1, 1880, while the amount deposited during last year, was $19,791,000 greater than during the year before. The total number of savings bank depositors in the state is now 953,707, and the bank assets have reached the enormous aggregate of $400,944,000. The confidence the people have in the savings banks of New York, as shown by these figures, is largely due to the responsibility on their part which is assured by efficient state superintendence.

Mr. Froude, who is preparing a life of Carlyle, writes that he has several thousand letters to and from the subject of his biography, which are very rich in materials. He has also sketches by Carlyle himself of his father and mother, of the celebrated Edward Irving, of Lord Jeffrey and of Mrs. Carlyle. The sketches will be published in a short time by Mr. Froude in a volume separate from the life, as he can not venture to abridge them. The letters are exceedingly valuable, and include, besides Carlyle's own, the correspondence with him of Goethe, Emerson, Mill, Jeffrey, Leigh Hunt, Dickens, Thackeray, John Sterling, Von Ense and other famous persons.

The new prohibitory law of Kansas is very severe. It obliges all doctors and druggists to take an oath not to prescribe or use alcoholic medicines unless actually required for the patient's health. The prohibition extends to cologne, spirits of camphor and flavoring extracts. Perhaps it was the intention of the framers to kill the law by making it ridiculous. Certainly no lady who wants her smelling bottle and no toper who wants his bottle of something else, need be afraid to migrate to Kansas, maugre all such laws. Camphor and corn juice will still abound.

The commissioner of pensions declares that frauds amounting to $2,000,000 are committed upon the government in obtainment of pensions by persons not entitled to them. Five hundred fraudulent names have recently been stricken from the rolls. In Maine a man has been discovered who was drawing payments for seven widows. He has been sent to the penitentiary for ten years.

Recently Mrs. John Jacob Astor of New York sent a party of one hundred homeless children to the west at a cost of $1500. Of these twenty-four boys found employment on Virginia farms, and the rest went to new homes in Iowa, Missouri and Kansas. This swells the total number of children whom Mrs. Astor has assisted to eight hundred and thirteen, at a total cost to her of more than $17,50[illegible]

President Stephens, of the Canada Pacific railway syndicate, has gone to London for the purpose of placing ten million dollars of the bonds of the company for the prosecution of the work on the line. He proposes to push things.

The senate now has two Platts (Connecticut and New York), two Davises (Illinois and West Virginia), two Joneses (Nevada and Florida) and two Hills, Georgia and Colorado.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING. MARCH 21, 1881.

$10 REWARD.

THE OREGONIAN Publishing Company will pay $10 reward for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of stealing THE OREGONIAN from doors of its subscribers in East Portland.

CITY.

NEW ENTERPRISE.—A number of our leading manufacturers and mechanics have on hand a project which, if carried into execution, will result in much good both to the manufacturer and the whole commonwealth. It is the erection of a commodious building by a stock company, or otherwise, suitable to accommodate a large number of manufacturers with motive power and room for each individual industry. Say a building with room sufficient to accommodate 300 or more workmen, provided with a motor of 150 or 200 horse power, suitably located and constructed to rent or lease power and room at the lowest rates to all whose industry required the same. It is claimed that through the proposed scheme great advantage will be afforded manufacturers of limited means. Similar schemes have been carried into execution in more than one manufacturing city in the east, and all have been an entire success. It is only a matter of time when such a company will be formed in Portland, and the sooner the better for the manufacturing interest of the Northwest.

A NEW INDUSTRY.—The vast deposits of stone located in what are known as the Gates and Kelly quarries, near Bald Butte, about three miles southeast of East Portland, have been leased for a term of years by Mr. M. Cronin, who is now prepared to enter into contract for the supply of any quantity of good stone at a reasonable price. At present he is getting out material for the wall and steps of the residence now being erected on the corner of Alder and West Park streets, Portland. Persons requiring stone for building or other purposes, cannot do better than avail themselves of this opportunity.

THE NEW DIRECTORY.—We are in receipt of McCormick's Directory of Portland, East Portland and Albina for 1881. We have not had time to examine it closely, but a glance shows it to have been prepared with unusual care and precision. Its lists of benevolent organizations, state and city officers, etc., are perfect, and there is much valuable information in the way of statistics. The directory for 1881 seems to be the most complete ever issued here.

"REAPING THE WHIRLWIND."—Last November the management of the New Northwest offered a prize for the best serial story of about twenty-six chapters that should be submitted by February 15. Out of nine received, one written by Miss Mary E. Coplin, of this city, entitled "Reaping the Whirlwind" was selected. It is spoken of as well written and highly interesting. It will be commenced in next week's issue of the New Northwest.

TO DOUBLE ITS CAPACITY.—We learn that the Buena Vista pottery is to be immediately enlarged to double its present capacity by the erection of additional buildings and another 20 foot kiln. A. M. Smith, the proprietor, has arranged to move his family to Portland and will give the trade his personal attention and continue to have general supervision of the factory.

NEW BUILDING.—Mr. Walter V. Smith, owner of the old frame buildings adjoining THE OREGONIAN block on the south, will cause their removal in a few days. He will erect on the site a two-story brick building to correspond in style with the block on the northeast corner of Front and Washington, occupied by J. B. Congle & Co., and DuBois & King.

RESISTING AN OFFICER.—Yesterday three men broke a window pane in a Chinese house in the upper portion of the city. Officer Burke arrested one of the men, but the other two interfered and prevented him from taking the man. The result of the resistance was that the three men got away and no arrest was made at all.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—Warren Goodell, aged 72 years, who came to Oregon in 1848, died at his home near Yoncalla, Douglas county, on the 16th inst. Mr. Goodell leaves a wife and a son and daughter who have both reached years of maturity whose commendable labors have long been the prop of his declining years.

STARTED EAST.—By a letter which has been received from San Francisco, it is learned that John E. Owens and wife, Miss Lottie Cobb, Mr. Joseph Arthur and Geo. S. Starling left that city on March 4th, bound for New York. Mr. Owens is announced to appear at the Fifth Avenue Theater on March 21st.

DIED AT SALEM.—Dr. F. C. Paine, a homeopathist physician of some renown in this valley, died at Salem on Friday last after a long and painful illness. He was a quiet, unobtrusive man, who made a large number of friends who will sincerely mourn his death. He leaves a wife and several children.

LARGE "SPUD" SHIPMENT.—W. Dunbar made a very large shipment of potatoes on the outgoing steamer. The Oregon, which sailed hence yesterday morning, carried 1519 sacks of the "nutritious esculent, endeared to the sons of crushed Hibernia."

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce a decision in this court this morning in the case of the Pacific Rolling Mill Co. vs. The D. S. & G. R. Railway Co., upon the question of the attorney fee argued upon the rehearing.

TO THE FRONT.—Messrs. D. D. and D. S. McBean, who are interested in the contract for grading the O. R. & N. Co's. line from Texas ferry to Colfax, leave for the former point this morning to arrange preliminaries for work.

THE COLUMBIA.—The steamer Columbia reached Astoria Saturday afternoon, but did not leave for Portland until 6 o'clock yesterday morning. She arrived at her dock yesterday afternoon at ten minutes to 2 o'clock.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The ladies of the Christian church will give a literary entertainment at Masonic hall to-night. An excellent programme has been prepared, and all are cordially invited.

CROSSED OUT.—The steamship Oregon, which sailed from here yesterday morning arrived at Astoria yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. She crossed the bar and passed to sea at 4:30 P. M.

NEW FERRY BOAT.—Knott Bros. put their new and commodious steam ferry on the Stark street line last evening. The new boat will be kept on regularly until further notice.

MAIL.—The steamer Columbia, which arrived here yesterday afternoon from San Francisco, brought 83 quarter sacks of mail, 3 lock pouches, 7 registered sacks and 8 cases.

COKE, COAL.—In addition to other cargo the Viola brought to this port a quantity of coal and coke. The latter is found to be excellent for foundrymen's use.

AMUSEMENTS.

HARMONY MINSTRELS.—The performances given Saturday afternoon and evening by the Harmony Minstrels were very fairly patronized, and proved enjoyable. On both occasions very entertaining programmes were presented.

KATHERINE ROGERS.—This noted emotional actress leaves San Francisco on the "State" to-morrow morning, and will open here next Monday evening at New Market Theater. The following well known actors, the entire company from Baldwin's theater, San Francisco, will support Miss Rogers during her engagement here: Miss Lillian Andrews, Miss Annie Young, Miss Imogene Eberly, Miss Belle Sawyer, Messrs. Joseph Grismer, Harry [illegible], A. D. Bradley, J. W. Jennings, Chas. Morris, Fred Ellis, Theodore Roberts, John McCormack, John Miller and Dave Belasco, stage manager. To judge by the reputation these ladies and gentlemen bear in San Francisco, it is safe to assume that they will equal the famous company which occupied the boards of the old Oro Fino theater in 1868. In conversation with a veteran play-goer, who saw this company in San Francisco in January, he said: "I believe there is a better general actress in America than Katherine Rogers, but I don't know it. If you see her play Hester Grazebrook in 'The Unequal Match,' you will agree with me. As for her support, it is the best ever brought here. Grismer is certainly as graceful a man as I ever saw on the stage, second only to Charley Thorne, to my notion. And as for Jennings as a low comedian, you have to get out of the range of stock actors and hunt among the stars to find his superior. With such pieces as 'Forget-me-not' and 'Daniel Rochat' they are certain to draw as big houses as anybody, not barring John Owens."

Following is the repertoire: first week, Monday, "Miss Multon," Tuesday, "Hunchback," Wednesday, "Lost Astray," Thursday, "Daniel Rochat" Friday, "Pygmalion and Galatea," Saturday matinee [illegible] evening, "Forget-me-not." Second week: Monday, "Romeo and Juliet," Tuesday, "Hunchback," Wednesday, "Lady of Lyons," Thursday, "Unequal Match," Friday, "Leah," Saturday matinee, "Romeo and Juliet," evening, [illegible].

PRIVATE MASQUERADE AT SALEM.

Mr. Abe McCully, son of Hon. and Mrs. A. A. McCully, of Salem, entertained his friends on Friday evening last with a private masquerade party at their elegant residence in that city. There were a large number in attendance, although not a very large number were in masque. The following list embraces all the merry maskers present, together with the characters assumed by each.

OREGON PRESBYTERY.

Wednesday Evening.

ALBANY, March 16.

This evening's session of the Presbytery was preceded with a very clear and forcible sermon by Rev. R. W. Hill, of Salem, Text, Isaiah 1. 18. The speaker depicted the various phases of religious gloom which fall occasionally to the lot of Christian believers, and pointed out the true scriptural remedies.

Rev. Mr. Dunning, the Moderator, took the chair, and called for the reading of church narratives and statistical reports, as required from each minister, said narratives and reports to be certified as correct by the session or official board of each church.

The stated clerk presented the narrative of the state of religion in the church at Portland, as forwarded by Rev. Dr. Lindsley. This was a very full and satisfactory account of church life and church work in that city. Besides the regular means of grace, there had been maintained city missionary work and special efforts for the Chinese, two of those having been received into church communion. The [illegible] cordially co-operated with other [illegible] in mission bible, temperance and [illegible] work. During the past twelve months there have been [illegible] additions to the church, making the membership at present 466. The missionary work of John McNeil, the Messrs. [illegible], Edward [illegible] and the work of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was referred to in the narrative as successful in bearing the gospel to [illegible]. The [illegible] Mission, which originated with this church, was also referred to in hopeful terms. For some reason the statistical report of this church was not before the Presbytery.

The narrative and statistical report of Brownsville church were presented, Rev. R. Robe pastor. These showed an increase of [illegible] to the church membership, the total number enrolled, 47.

A new church has been organized at Crawfordsville with 22 members, and takes the name of Hopewell.

Rev. George Ross reported an addition of [illegible] members to Tualatin Plains church, the total membership being 54. Notwithstanding opposing forces, Mr. Ross reported great encouragement in his work [illegible] as cordially as the members of that church were [illegible] earnest and full of faith.

Rev. H. [illegible], pastor of Bethany and Eagle Park churches, reported [illegible] additions at Bethany and [illegible] Eagle Park, [illegible] total of 14 [illegible] the former place and [illegible] at the latter. The church at Bethany was never more prosperous [illegible] revival influence having prevailed [illegible] the week of prayer.

The annual reports from Albany church, Rev. E. N. Condit, pastor, were next presented. These showed an addition of 11 members, total being 71. The contributions to the various benevolent funds of the church were quite liberal and the spiritual condition of the church hopeful.

The statistical report from Salem, Rev. R. W. Hill, pastor, was next read, announcing an addition of 25, making the total membership at Salem 77. The benevolent contributions were in advance of former years. The narrative read showed a marked year in the history of this church. The membership is earnest and active in Christian work. For the first time in its history the church is reported free from debt. This was owing to the liberality of Portland members, and the intention is to stay out of debt.

Rev. I. B. Condit, pastor of Pleasant Grove church in [illegible], reported a membership of 35, and liberal contributions for all the benevolent boards. Semi-monthly services have alternated between Pleasant Grove and Turner. With these two stations have also been associated, viz., Waldo hills and Marion station. This field is full of hope but needs the services of some man who can give his whole time to it.

Astoria and Clatsop Plains, Rev. J. V. Milligan pastor, reported [illegible] accessions with a total membership in two churches of [illegible]. The contributions were liberal for church purposes. The narrative reviewed hopefully the situation. Sunday school work has been made the special subject of prayer-meeting exercises each week.

Eugene City, Rev. E. R. Geary, D. D., pastor, reported an addition of 6, making the present membership 60. The Sunday school numbers 60. Collections were reported for all the church funds equal to former years, notwithstanding the disastrous floods and hard times. The work of temperance is carried on [illegible] from church to church [illegible] with good results. A good prospect exists of one or two young men entering the ministry from that place.

Similar reports were also read from Jacksonville, Phoenix, Yaquina Bay, Roseburg, Corvallis and Ashland.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Thursday's Sessions.

ALBANY, March 17, 1881.

The presbytery was opened this morning at 9 o'clock with devotional exercises, conducted by Elder J. H. Scott.

Moderator called first for reading of minutes of previous sessions. These were read, corrected and adopted.

Rev. R. W. Hill was nominated, and elected chairman of the executive committee, vice Rev. Dr. Lindsley, resigned.

An application for aid to Yaquina Bay church was referred to the executive committee.

The records of Albany church were approved, also the records of Corvallis church, after satisfactory explanations were made concerning the mode of receiving communicants in that church.

Rev. E. N. Condit brought up the case of young students for the ministry who might need the care of the presbytery. Such cases on motion were referred to the committee on education, and candidates referred to correspondence and examination.

Rev. R. W. Hill, chairman of the executive committee, recommended the application for aid from [illegible] City to be indorsed by the presbytery and forwarded to the board.

The application from Salem for the same purpose was recommended to be voted for by ballot before being forwarded. This brought out a spirited debate concerning all applications for aid, and [illegible] a commendable spirit of self-sacrifice and determination to ask for no aid that could be dispensed with. A motion to lay on the table till after dinner was carried.

Rev. J. V. Milligan presented his report on Sunday school work. We have 20 churches on our roll; we have no report from six of these. From the rest we have the following statistics: Total officers, 38, teachers, 126; scholars, 1414; average attendance, 821; conversions, 32; teachers' meetings reported, 2. No special efforts have been reported as made for securing the attendance of parents in the Sunday school or of the children at the preaching services. A definite plan should also be adopted for gathering the children of irreligious parents. The report was adopted.

Rev. R. Robe, of the judicial committee, reported the case of difficulty at Bethany as ready for investigation. Report adopted and ordered to be taken up as the second order of business for the afternoon.

Rev. J. V. Milligan, Elder Glass and R. Patterson were excused from further attendance; also S. Condit if he found it necessary to leave on the noon train.

Rev. E. N. Condit, stated clerk, presented the statistical report to be forwarded to the general assembly:

No. of churches	21
Additions on examination	67
Additions on certificates	52
Total communicants	865
Total baptisms	71
Sunday school membership	1415
CONTRIBUTIONS.
Home missions	$ 243 05
Foreign missions	370 03
Education	44 00
Public missionary fund	7 00
Church erection	574 60
Relief fund	56 00
Freedmen	6 50
Sustentation	[illegible]
General assembly	71 72
Congregational	11,537 00
Miscellaneous	694 00

In the above contributions, last year's report of Portland statistics is taken as the basis of this year's contributions from that church. All the rest is from this year's report.

Rev. I. H. Condit presented his report of presbyterial narrative to be forwarded to the general assembly, but asked for time in order to incorporate the facts concerning the Portland church which had not yet come to hand. He was requested to complete his report from the data furnished before the presbytery adjourned.

Rev. W. A. Smick, chairman of committee on overtures, reported the action of the general assembly calling for certain changes in the polity of the church, and recommended favorable action by the presbytery. The report was accepted, and pending the question of adopting the overtures, the presbytery adjourned with prayer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 2 o'clock P. M., the presbytery was opened with prayer by Rev. G. Ross.

The moderator announced as the first business the consideration of applications for aid from the board of missions.

After thorough examination the applications from Salem and Roseburg were voted on by ballot and duly endorsed by the presbytery.

The application from Yaquina bay was referred back for correction in the form so as to agree with the rules of the church in such cases given.

The report of committee on the records of Yaquina bay church was now taken up, alleging some encroachments on the part of that church upon the rights of church sessions, particularly in its requiring certain conditions of church membership not required by church law. An interesting discussion followed, in which Rev's Hill, Hanna, Condit and others participated. After satisfactory explanations by the pastor, showing that he had merely used a part of A. A. Hodge's form of church organization out of pure loyalty to the church, the records were approved, only a slight omission had caused all the misunderstanding.

The moderator now called up the second order of business for the afternoon, namely, the consideration of the report of the judicial committee on the difficulties existing in the church of Bethany, at the same time reading the church rule requiring the presbytery when about to act as a court to do so with solemnity and in the fear of God.

The charges were against a certain elder for his unbrotherly conduct and unjust charges toward one of the ministers. The parties being present, explanations and acknowledgments were made by the offending elder, so that the case was referred to [illegible] H. Condit, J. W. Hill and S. Condit.

Next in order was unfinished business, first the overtures from the general assembly asking for a change in church polity. The first change proposed was an amendment of chapter xii, section 7, of rules, so as to permit the synods of the church to be made up of representatives from presbyteries instead of from all the churches. On this the vote was taken by yeas and nays. Carried with only one dissenting vote.

The second change proposed was of section 4, so as to make the action of the synods in all cases not affecting church government or doctrines, final. This was voted on by yeas and nays, and carried with two dissenting votes.

The third change proposed was of first clause of chapter xii, section 4, providing for the general assembly to review and decide all [illegible] of the [illegible] and doctrines of the church. This was carried unanimously.

Adjourned, with prayer by Rev. J. W. Hill.

Closing Session.

ALBANY, March 18, 1881.

Presbytery met and was opened with prayer.

The commissioners to the general assembly were instructed to remain in attendance on the session of the assembly until all business shall have been deliberately transacted.

The committee on bills and overtures reported that the petition for an organization at Lebanon was in order, and recommended that a committee be appointed to visit Lebanon as soon as convenient, and if the way be clear, effect the organization according to the request presented.

The committee further recommended that this work be presented to the board of home missions for aid.

Great satisfaction was expressed concerning the effective work of Rev. I. H. Condit in developing this field.

The report of the committee was unanimously adopted.

Rev's I. H. Condit, R. W. Hill and Elder S[illegible] were appointed to take charge of this matter.

On motion presbytery proceeded to engage in devotional exercises for [illegible].

The self-sacrificing nature of christian missions as presented by Rev. H. P. Dunning, commanded careful attention.

The meeting was characterized by earnest supplication. Many prayers were offered.

At the close of devotions the special committee having in hand the report of the presbyterial missionary and that of the executive committee, reported recommending that the presbytery urge the board of home missions to commission a suitable minister to act as presbyterial missionary. [illegible] missionary [illegible] be made a member of this presbytery and make full report of his work at our spring and autumn meetings.

With regard to our Alaska missions the committee recommend that action be delayed until a conference could be had with Rev. S. Hall Young, who is now en route for Portland.

The committee also urged that seven new fields reported in the presbyterial missionary's report be occupied as soon as possible. The report of the committee was adopted.

The special committee on the Bethany case reported recommending that the presbytery hear the case fully. Adopted. [illegible] this case was laid on the table for the present.

The executive committee recommended that the application of Yaquina bay church for aid [illegible] be returned. Adopted.

The executive committee also recommended that Rev. Anthony Simpson be requested to work in the towns of Independence, Dallas, Amity and Lafayette and that Rev. J. A. Hanna be assigned to McMinnville, North Yamhill and Amity, [illegible] requested to preach [illegible] with a view to the formation of Presbyterian churches.

The next item of business was the selection of a place for the fall meeting. Invitations from Portland, Albany and Brownsville were presented, [illegible] Brownsville was the place selected for the fall meeting.

On motion it was ordered that churches [illegible] pay for the travel of the ministers to the place of meeting.

The report of the committee on narrative to the general assembly and to report on Albany collegiate institute were deferred to the fall meeting.

The report of the committee on [illegible] was received and [illegible].

On motion the matter of the Bethany [illegible] was taken from the table.

The clerk read the papers [illegible] and Mr. [illegible] made statements and [illegible]. Whereupon resolutions were adopted which were satisfactory to all parties. [illegible]

Presbytery ordered that a vote of thanks be extended to the good people of Albany for their hospitality; to the Oregon and California Railroad Co. for favors extended, and to the Rev. Dr. [illegible] for his reports to THE OREGONIAN.

The minutes were read and approved.

On motion, adjourned to meet at the call of the moderator.

Closed with prayer by Rev. Geo. Ross and the Apostolic benediction by the moderator.

NOTE.—In connection with the election of commissioners to attend the general assembly to meet in Buffalo, N. Y., May 19, 1881, it should have been stated that Rev. I. H. Condit, of Albany, was unanimously elected alternate to go, in case of inability of Rev. Dr. Geary to attend.

The Fulton Iron works at The Dalles now employ a force of eleven men. The iron work for the extensive shops of the O. R. & N. Co. is nearly all made at these works.

A. A. Bonney, of Tygh valley, had 400 pounds of bacon stolen from his cellar. Some lost scent, and has not been able to recover it or find the owner as yet. He also lost some grain in the same manner on the same night.

The engine, pumps, pipe and hose that have been in use at Celilo for the past three years as a protection against fire was taken to The Dalles a few days ago, and will soon be put up in the new house that stands to the left of the track as you enter the yard of the O. R. & N. Co. from the city. It is the intention to keep steam up night and day, and always be ready, at the first alarm, to throw water. It will draw its water from the creek, and also from the large tank that stands near by, and will be used for fire purposes only.

Transcript: Gov. Newell has appointed Dr. [illegible] Bartlett of Port Townsend to be a member of the board of health in place of I. B. Hastings, who has resigned on account of ill health. In view of the existence of small pox at the Sandwich Islands, the board of health is making preparations for patients. The hospital is being renovated, and a new road is to be built from the pest house to the quarantine anchorage.

It should be the business of every one having a cold to treat it promptly and properly until it is got rid of—intelligent experience fortunately presenting a curative in Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, thoroughly adapted to remove speedily all coughs and colds, allay any existing inflammation of the throat or lungs, and remove the distressing symptoms of asthma or pleurisy.

"How beautiful," was the remark we overheard a lady make as she stood before the display of photographs made by Abel. She took the earliest opportunity to call at the gallery.

ENTIRE CHANGE.

Having just completed marking our goods at a

GREAT REDUCTION.

We are now prepared to offer our entire stock, which is complete in all its departments, at

SAN FRANCISCO'S LOWEST PRICES.

Why we have made this grand change is

1st. We are disposing of our retail business in San Francisco to make Portland our headquarters.

2d. Nearly all the desirable goods have been shipped up here to be sold.

3d. We have better facilities this year than ever before.

4th. We mean to lead the trade in our line, if the LOWEST prices for the BEST goods will bring it.

REMEMBER,

It is a pleasure, and not trouble, to show goods, which our prices invite opposition, but defy competition.

IN OUR
GLASSWARE DEPARTMENT

We have really done wonders, having reduced the entire line 50 per cent. This is no humbug, but come and be convinced. We are to-day giving more Glassware for one dollar than any other house in town for two dollars.

Having an extraordinary large stock in the above line, we feel justified in saying that we can satisfy the poor and rich, having cheap, medium and the very best Glassware made.

FOR OUR
CROCKERY DEPARTMENT

We can only repeat the above facts.

FRENCH CHINA.

We have just received, direct from France, 25 casks of that celebrated I. Haviland & Co. ÉLITE CHINA, the very best goods ever imported to this country, which we offer at a great reduction from former quotations.

We have entered into a large contract with the leading

BABY CARRIAGE FACTORY

East, which enables us to give a better carriage for the money than any other house on the coast, being of our own and direct importation.

OUR CUTLERY

Has been greatly reduced. We carry none but the BEST.

I. RUSSELL & CO'S GREEN RIVER CUTLERY.

LAMPS AND CHANDELIERS

We have marked down full one-third.

ALL OUR SILVERWARE AT A GREAT REDUCTION.

Desirous of LEADING the TRADE in our various branches, we have firmly concluded on Large Sales and Small Profits. A call will convince all that only FACTS are stated, and a cordial invitation is now extended to the public of Portland and vicinity to inspect our goods after the great change in prices.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 21, 1881.

WHERE WAITEST THOU?

Where waitest thou,
Lady I am to love? Thou comest not;
Thou knowest of my sad and lonely lot;
I looked for thee ere now!

It is the May!
And each sweet sister soul hath found its brother;
Only we two seek fondly each the other,
And, seeking, still delay.

Thou art as I.—
Thy soul doth wait for mine, as mine for thee;
We cannot live apart; must meeting be
Never before we die?

Dear soul, not so;
That time doth keep for us some happy years,
That God hath portion'd out our smiles and tears,
Thou knowest and I know.

Yes, we shall meet!
And therefore let our searching be the stronger;
Dark days of life shall not divide us longer,
Nor doubt, nor danger, sweet!

Therefore I bear
This winter-tide as bravely as I may,
Patiently waiting for the bright spring day
That cometh with thee, dear.

'Tis the May light
That crimsons all the quiet college gloom.
May it shine softly in thy sleeping-room;
And so, dear wife, good night.

SIXTEEN OLD MAIDS.

Bosworth was a nice little village of some 500 inhabitants, and boasted of three churches —Congregational, Baptist and Methodist—while a handful of Unitarians gathered occasionally at the town hall, and a few Adventists, to worship. The three first mentioned societies were as distinct from each other as black is from white. Not only were they not on visiting terms with each other, but the three stores showed that they did not even trade together. The oldest inhabitant could not remember when this was not so; but the time had come for a revolution, and with this our story has to do.

Miss Betsy Bailey, an elderly maiden lady, was sitting alone in her quiet home, when all at once she broke out with:

"Well, I do declare. Here we be a living alone in this heathenish way year after year, and we consider ourselves christians. It's a shame that 500 people can't live together in harmony when so many of us are church members."

The cat, which was sleeping quietly in Miss Betsy's lap, jumped down and ran to the further end of the room, for Miss Betsy had gesticulated in that direction in such a manner as to inflict quite a rap upon the sleeping tabby.

"Well, I declare," said Miss Betsy, "if I didn't get so eloquent that I scared the cat. I think I must have been born for a female orator."

After this she sat back in the chair, apparently asleep, but she was not; her mind was busy over a plan which she meant to put into immediate operation. It was very late that night when she came to a final decision, and of course she must wait till morning before she could begin. So excited had she become over the matter that it was long past midnight before she retired, and then it was not to sleep.

Early next morning she called on her most intimate acquaintance and neighbor, Miss Sarah Jenkins.

"Sarah, I've got a notion, and it is so seldom that I am ever troubled with such a thing that I had to come right over and tell you before I lost it. Do you feel able this morning to grasp one of the grandest, noblest and brightest ideas the world has ever pondered on?"

"Why, Betsy, for land's sake, don't scare a body to death. You are not going to set the river afire, are you?"

"Not quite so bad as that, I hope, but if we don't turn this town upside down in three months my name isn't Betsy."

"We? I hope you don't mean to include me in this great scheme."

"But I do. You are the very one I want for my right-hand man."

The idea of an old maid like me lending aid to the noblest, grandest—"

"Hold on, Sarah, don't repeat that sentence, please; the very walls have ears, and I would not have a word of this get out for the world. All you've got to do is to listen to me, and when you've heard my story you'll agree with me to the letter; if you don't I won't ask you to help me a bit. Just hand me your knitting and I'll knit and talk; I was in such a hurry to get here this morning that I forgot my work. I don't talk, though, unless I am doing something."

Betsy then proceeded to lay the scheme before her friend, who, when she had concluded, not only agreed to help her but offered some very valuable suggestions. So eager were they with their plans that the noon hour slipped by and 3 o'clock came before either of them thought of dinner.

Next morning Betsy and Sarah were again together, this time prepared for a walk. Both these ladies were Congregationalists, and many of their neighbors were surprised to see them stop at the house of Eliza Simmons one of the staunchest sisters of the Methodist persuasion. It couldn't have been over an hour before the town was alive with the news.

The orthodox was shocked, the Methodists opened their eyes in wonder, while the Baptists stood aloof in dignified silence. For one whole day people talked of nothing but this breach of sectarian etiquette. The next day they had something else to talk about.

These three ladies, in company with Margaret Stiles, another Methodist sister, called upon the West sisters, Mary and Martha, two of the leading ladies of the Baptist society. They not only called, but they stayed all the forenoon and took dinner.

This was on Saturday. On Sunday those six ladies occupied Miss Bailey's pew at the Congregational church. The little flock was so astonished that they paid but little attention to the sermon, and the minister went home with the feeling that not a dozen people in the whole congregation could tell what his text was.

Bosworth was now in a state of intense excitement. Such a thing had never happened before. Many of the Congregationalists called on Miss Betsy and on Miss Sarah, but all they could find out was that the ladies went with them by special invitation.

On Thursday night the six ladies attended class meeting at the Methodist vestry. Not only that, Miss Jenkins and Miss Martha Stiles both took a part in the meeting.

What was to be done? Something, certainly, for this state of things could not exist long. The Baptists visited the Misses Stiles, but all the information they could get was that they went to both places by invitation, and that Martha felt moved to speak at the latter, and did so. And the Baptists were no wiser for having called on the erring sisters.

The next Tuesday saw more mixing of the sects, and Monday night there was a gathering at Miss Betsy's residence of all the ladies engaged in the conspiracy. Sixteen ladies were present, and—was it chance?—all were maiden ladies of fifty years and over. From this time forward there was a great intimacy between these ladies. In vain they tried to induce others to join them; at the end of three months their band still numbered only sixteen.

Betsy and Sarah talked the matter over, and concluded to open another chapter of their plan. They were disappointed in only getting sixteen ladies to join them; in fact, that was nearly double the number they had hoped to get in at the beginning.

A few days later a notice appeared on the door of the Baptist store to the effect that it had been sold to Miss Betsy Bailey. About the same time one appeared on the Congregationalist store, saying it had been sold to Miss Sarah Jenkins. Both stores were closed, and the people had to go to the only remaining store in town—the Methodist—if they would buy anything.

Both the ladies then called on the Methodist brother, and he readily agreed to take all the goods from the other stores if he could thereby get the whole trade of the town. He knew from bitter experience that one store was all the town could support, and he at once began to help the ladies in their scheme, though he was totally unaware of the part he was taking, looking only at the fact that he could make money by the change. This plan of the ladies was a partial success, for the inhabitants fell right into this arrangement because they could not help it.

Still they would not visit or attend any but their own church; and three months more passed and still only the sixteen maiden sisters belonged to the visiting company. So chapter number three was opened.

One morning the train brought to the village a very pretty young lady and four large trunks. Such a thing was not a common occurrence, and the depot loungers soon spread the news, stating also that Miss Bailey was there to meet her, and that the young lady called her auntie. It soon came out who she was, and it was rumored that her stay in Bosworth might be permanent.

She was the daughter of Miss Bailey's sister, who had died when Rosie was only four years old. Miss Bailey claimed the child then, but the father wished her to remain with his folks, and Miss Bailey was, of course, forced to give up her claim for the child. Her father was now dead and she had to come to live with her Aunt Betsy, whom she had always loved as a mother. At first she was rather lonely, but when Monday night came, and with it the meeting of the sixteen unsectarian maidens, she had enough to think of. She was of course admitted to the council, and was much amused at the state of society. When the meeting adjourned she said to her aunt:

"Don't the young people visit?"

"Not outside of the denominations to which they belong."

"Did a Baptist ever marry a Methodist or something of that sort?"

"Not within the memory of the oldest inhabitant."

"I don't see how it is possible that a town can survive with such goings on," said Miss Rose, more to herself than to her aunt.

"We don't survive, we merely exist. The town has been worse than dead ever since I have been here, and we maiden ladies have been trying to do something to improve it."

"I think, auntie, you have done well; but you have started at the wrong end. Let me try and help you."

"Certainly you can. I have hoped ever since I got your letter that you would help us in some way when you came. Do whatever you wish, and I will lend all the aid in my power."

Rosie did not unfold her plan to her aunt, but at once began to carry it out. The next Sunday saw her at the Congregational church, dressed in the most becoming manner, and everyone pronounced her the prettiest girl they had ever seen. After church she went to the Sunday school, learning the names of all the young gentlemen and ladies near her own age. Next Sunday she was at the Baptist church, attending both church and Sunday school. And the next was devoted to the Methodist society.

Then there was a stir. Miss Rosie Anderson was going to give a party at her aunt's (Miss Bailey's) residence, and had sent notes of invitation to all the young people of the town, without regard to sect. The invitations were given out a month before the time of the party, so that everyone had a chance to talk it over, as Rosie said, and get their minds made up.

The Sunday following the giving out of the invitations, the soprano at the Baptist church was sick, and the fact not being known until nearly time for meeting, no one could be found to sing. Rosie was present, and when she heard of the difficulty, volunteered to sing for them. The leader gladly accepted her offer, not stopping to think what the good people would say when they saw a Congregationalist in their choir.

When they arose to sing the opening piece, Rosie stood up in full sight of the congregation. The minister looked horrified, while deacons covered their faces with their hands to think that the Baptists should get so low as to allow a Congregationalist to sing in the sanctuary. But when she sang the solo that fell to her the hands dropped from the faces of the deacons, and the expression of the minister's face changed to one of extreme pleasure. Rosie was a beautiful singer, and as her voice rang out clear and soft, the organist forgot to play, so enrapt was she in the singer, and Rosie carried the part through without the aid of the organ. Never before had any of them heard such a voice and they could hardly wait for the time to come for her to sing again that day, but when she came down from the gallery the minister took her by the hand, and said:

"Miss Anderson, you have contributed much to the good of the services of the afternoon and I am much obliged to you for it."

"You are certainly welcome, Mr. Bush. I think that when anyone has talents they should be used for the benefit of all who may need them."

"My idea of it, exactly," said the minister, and the two walked out of the church and down the street together. Meeting Miss Bailey near her residence, Mr. Bush was introduced to her and complimented her upon having such a pleasant and accomplished young lady in her family; he hoped that he might have the pleasure of seeing both the ladies present occasionally at his church.

Rosie sang again at the Baptist church the next Sunday, as the regular singer was not well enough to attend. When she rose in her seat she had the satisfaction of seeing many Methodists and Congregationalists in the audience, and, although she felt a certain pride in thinking that they came to hear her sing, she felt happier at the thought that she was to be the means of carrying out her aunt's scheme.

That evening the Methodists had a Sunday school concert, and Rosie played their organ. She was now on the best of terms with all the young people of the village, and had no doubt that her party would be a success.

And it was. More than fifty were in attendance, which included every young lady and gentleman in town. Aunt Betsy outdid herself in preparing the supper. Everything was perfect, even the ice cream from the city, which was a great luxury to the villagers.

At twelve o'clock the party broke up, and Rosie, by her managing, sent several Methodist maidens home with Baptist beaux, and otherwise mixed up the sects and sexes at her will.

A few days after the party Miss Bailey was surprised to receive a visit from Mrs. Bush, wife of the Baptist minister. They spent a very pleasant hour together when they were interrupted by Mrs. Deacon Wilson, of the Methodist church, and both ladies remained to tea. The ice was now broken, and calling between the different sects was as common as though it was not a new thing for Bosworth.

Everything now working to Rosie's satisfaction, she had time to think of her own troubles. When she came to Bosworth she was by no means a happy girl. Her father was a very strict man, and a young gentleman to whom she was quite partial had not found favor in his eyes, much to the mutual grief of the young people. Her father's sickness had been quite long, and so close was her seclusion till the time of his death that she had not seen Edward Bentley, nor did she see him before she came to Bosworth. She had written to her acquaintances, but they only knew that he had graduated from college and gone away.

About this time, Mr. Bush's health failing, he asked for a year's vacation, agreeing to fill the pulpit during his absence. This leave was, of course granted, and the congregation were waiting anxiously for the new minister. All they knew was that he was a young man, and came from a church in the city of Allison, where he was a colleague of the Rev. Dr. Howland, one of the most eminent preachers of the Baptist persuasion. Of course they expected something of more than ordinary ability, nor were they disappointed.

But with the sermon we have nothing to do. They wished to make a good impression upon the minister, so Rosie was sought out and invited to sing for them. With her usual good nature she accepted. Her position was such that she could not see the minister from where she sat, but when the choir rose to sing she found herself standing face to face with Edward Bentley.

To say that she was surprised would not half express her feelings. She turned first white, then red, and finally sank back into her seat, powerless to sing a note.

The minister, of course, knew nothing of this little affair of the gallery for the singers went on with the anthem after a moment's hesitation, and by the time they came to the solo, which Rosie was to sing, she was ready to go on with her part. As her voice rang out clear and soft, a look of startled surprise was noticed on the minister's face, and a few, at least, of the congregation were aware that something extraordinary happened. Rosie, now quite calm, sang her solo sweetly to the end, but when the minister arose to read the opening exercises some thought they observed a slight tremor in his voice. Only one in the congregation knew why there was such an earnestness in the prayer that was offered for the bringing together of friends long separated—most of them thinking he had reference to the long separation of the churches of the town.

When the services were ended he hurried from the pulpit and met Rosie as she came down from the gallery. There was a greeting that rather surprised those of the congregation who saw it, but a few words of explanation from the pastor set their minds right; and before night the whole town knew that Rosie was the affianced wife of Edward Bentley, the new Baptist minister, and that it was a love affair of long standing.

Everybody went to the wedding, which was in the Congregational church, and everybody went to the reception at Miss Bailey's, which was the grandest affair Bosworth had ever known.

At the end of the year Rosie bade farewell to the little town to go to her city home. But even she, so far distant from the little village, will ever have pleasant memories of the assistance she gave in the religious revolution of Bosworth, through the enterprise of sixteen old maids.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

Review of the Grain and Provision Trade of Last Week—Range of Prices.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Grain has traveled several smart steps upward since the last weekly review, and now stands at good, strong prices. This is due more to the unreasonable and uncompromising weather than to any particular cause of strength from other influences. In fact there are more reasons for a decline than for an advance, always excepting the ever present and ever uncertain factor, the weather. It is difficult for the agricultural or speculative mind to witness unmoved the spectacle of broad farms under water or under snow, and hence it is almost an invariable rule that threatening weather is a bull argument, and the weather has been rough and stormy enough for four months to gratify the most ardent bull. If a mild and balmy spring should ensue there is no telling how great a depression there would be in the cereals.

Provisions have been pretty strong, and although somewhat weak at the close there is no demoralization and will not be so long as hogs come in as slowly as now, though European nations continue to cut off their own noses by prohibiting imports.

Sales for the week of May option were made as follows: Wheat, $1 04⅛@1 09; corn, 41⅛@43¼c; oats, 33⅜@35⅛c; pork, $15 50@15 87½; lard, $10 75@10 90; whisky was steady at $1 08.

Closing May prices: Wheat, $1 09; corn, 43⅛@43¼c; oats, 34½@34⅜c; pork, $15 50, lard, $10 70.

Closing cash prices: Wheat, $1 02⅞, for regular and $1 04¾ for fresh on which no storage has accrued; corn, 39@40⅛c; oats, 30⅞@32c; rye, 98c@$1; barley, $1 04@1 05, pork; $15 40, lard, $10 55.

Receipts for the week: Wheat, 191,000 bu; corn, 700,000 bu; oats, 332,000 bu.

Shipments: Wheat, 116,000 bu; corn, 727,000 bu; oats, 261,339 bu.

Receipts same time last year: Wheat, 247,000 bu; corn, 1,451,650 bu; oats, 144,000.

Shipments: Wheat, 245,000 bu; corn, 1,272,000 bu; oats, 269,000 bu.

THE EASTERN FREIGHT SITUATION.

NEW YORK, March 19.—There is no improvement to note in the cape trade to California. Both lines have ships in berth and are doing fairly, yet there is no great rush. Shippers, however, are inclined to hold back, many hoping that new overland roads will be able to make rates against all roads, and thus enable shippers to forward freight that otherwise would go by sail. However, it is not probable that the new route will make any special rates for some time yet, or until they are in good working order. Rates are firm, many old contracts are running out and the disposition of agents is to advance rather than to cut.

Isthmus freights are dull, as railroad agents hold rates up to the overland tariff and only use steamers for certain rough and coarse goods that cannot pay overland contract rates.

At Boston there is considerable freight offered and VanVleck deems it advisable to put on a ship instead of bringing freight to this port. The ship Brown Bros. is due there and she will probably take berth for San Francisco. Railroad freights at Boston are fairly active, shipments for the past week including 845 packages fish, 100 cs canned goods, 100 cs yeast powder, 50 cs sugar of lemon, 30 bxs tin plate and 700 kgs horseshoes.

At Philadelphia the market is quiet, in fact so slow that considerable freight has been sent to this port for shipment.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 19.—There has been a considerable movement in merchandise material, but chiefly of a speculative character. Although legitimate transactions have been quite large, the most noteworthy event has been a renewed speculative movement in breadstuffs, though at the close wheat showed some weakness.

Barley—Slow demand, prices rather easier.

Pork and Lard—Dull, unchanged.

Rio Coffee—Quiet, but steady.

Refined Sugars—Fair demand and prices steady.

Teas—Flat, prices nominal.

Raisins—Moderate demand, steady.

Prunes—Very firm at 6⅝@6¾c for new.

Figs—Firm, owing to moderate supply.

Currants—Fair demand, firm at 5½@6c.

Borax—Steady demand; California, 12½@13½c.

Quicksilver—Slow, 41½@42c.

Hides—Quiet, owing to extreme views of holders.

Leather—Very good demand; prices steady.

Turpentine—Weak.

Rosin—Very quiet; prices firm.

Petroleum—Dull; crude, quiet and steady.

Hops—Firm but not active.

Hardware—Better demand; prices steady. Nails, dull and easier. Pig iron, better demand; firm. Pig lead, more active; common, $4 75@4 85. Tin plate, dull; prices irregular.

Wool—Very dull; prices lower; nominal sales 25,000 lbs spring California at 30c; 2500 lbs choice northern, 31c; 150 bales fall, private.

Dry Goods—Good demand and prices steady.

Prices at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Wheat—Stronger, $1 02⅞@1 03 cash, $1 02⅞ April, $1 07⅜ May.

Corn—Firm, higher; 40⅜c fresh cash; 39½c April; 43⅛c bid May and June.

Oats—Firm, 30⅞@31⅛c cash; 30⅞c April; 34⅛@34⅜c May.

Rye—Unchanged.

Barley—Unchanged.

Whisky—Unchanged.

Pork—Weak; lower; $15 25 cash; $15 37½@15 50 bid May.

Lard—Weak; lower; $10 52½ cash; $10 57½ April; $10 70 May.

The San Francisco Tonnage Situation.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—But one spot charter has been reported during the week, and as there has been fair inquiry for tonnage, it is evident that ships are held with great firmness. For the present the tonnage situation is strongly in favor of ships, as the fleet under engagement is loading rapidly, and disengaged tonnage in port is light and there are very few ships due. The English market also shows improvement, but thus far wheat has obtained the benefit of this advance as large sales here conclusively shows. Two vessels have been reported during the week as chartered to load at Wilmington. That port has become quite a shipping point for wheat, and another year of exports direct from southern ports will form quite an item in our grain fleet. Several vessels are now on the way to Wilmington with cargoes of coal, and undoubtedly most of them will load back from that port with wheat cargoes. Here charterers are acting with caution, and do not appear disposed to pay rates asked, which accounts for the light business transacted. Under these circumstances it is impossible to give accurate quotations.

Money and Stocks.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Silver bars, 112½; money easy, 2@5; governments quiet, stocks closed dull; W. U. 114½; Quicksilver 15; Pacific 6¼; Mariposa, 4; Wells Fargo 117; New York Central, 144; Erie, 47½; Panama, 212; Union Pacific, 119⅝; bonds, 113⅝; Central Pacific, 86; bonds, 113; Sutro, 1⅞.

LONDON, March 19.—Consols, 99 15-16; Erie, 49⅛.

Petroleum.
